Well, Mark has certainly "out-assholed" just about everybody in these groups, save for yourself perhaps.
Again, using Robesin as an excuse to post 300 to 400 times a week, and to crap on as many posts as he can is folly. Even YOU should be capable of realizing that.

Mark is rude. He is thoughtless. Robesin didn't cause that. I could touch on Mark's obvious mental illness, but there is little need for that, is there?

Farnsworth is a teaching method used to avoid the mental counting of dits and dahs in slower speed Morse Code. In Farnsworth, as you approach the desired speed, the spaces continue to be reduced until, at the desired speed, you are using Morse Code.

So unless you are running a code class on the air, why would you use it? Are you sending to Val Germann?

Sure, Mark has dyslexia. Too bad.

Robesin was the catalyst for many of the problems in this group. If he had only been able to apologize for calling Mark a rapist..., and instead sues Mark (Mark is still waiting to be served). His mental stability has been the focus of numerous postings.

I think the problem is that you are incorrectly equating A1 "CW" to A2 "MCW" (tone modulated continuous wave).

Actually, MCW is an oxymoron. Although you can have a wave continuously modulated by tone, you cannot have a continuous wave if the wave is continuously modulated. It should be WCM, not MCW :-)

You obviously know the difference. A1 CW must meet the emission requirement of on/off keying of the carrier - only.

I agree with the latter.

Nothing is true "CW" except keyed double sideband carrier (A1A). That doesn't mean it isn't Morse (or Farnsworth :-)). True CW is very narrowly defined in its emission characteristic. It is only a technical point. You can call tone modulated carrier "CW" if you wish but that does not agree with the FCC definition in designating the US CW sub-bands.

And yes, MCW will let you listen to 1 Mhz on a cheap AM radio while a zero beat oscillator is needed to hear A1A on a cheap AM radio (I had overlooked that simple fact before).

Most of the ready-built "CW" or SSB HF transceivers in use today do that sort of keying. Major reason is keeping the PA at the same bias for all modes selected; makes for a simpler mode selection control.

The first RTTY radio circuits, circa 1930-1960, used separate exciters to feed Class C biased transmitters.
The exciters (not an exciting name for a separate box) literally shifted their carrier frequency from Mark to Space. Those were, generally, crystal controlled but with an adjustment for the "shift" (of Mark to Space).
Around 1950 the first "VFO" style of FSK exciters appeared on the radio market.

Doing RTTY via audio frequency initial Mark-Space shifting is simpler, more stable, but requires a SSB transmitter system to translate the audio spectrum into the HF spectrum...which is exactly what a SSB voice modulator does. Once spectra are translated there isn't any real difference in frequencies at RF.
Once again, there need be no change in PA biasing between voice, data, or "CW."

The internal microcontroller of practically every ready-built SSB transceiver takes care of the shifting used during a translate of spectra. That's a relatively simple programming task and, essentially, invisible to the operator. It should be noted by operators (but seldom understood) since the adjustment of "carrier frequency" for operator display versus mode varies between manufacturers.

>This is precisely why two-tone oscillators are needed for testing >SSB transmitters. Because only then are you actually modulating >the output. Otherwise, it's just a carrier.

Quite true and succinctly put, Michael. A single frequency from any source, translated to HF, will still be a single frequency. Two frequencies close together (a "two-tone" source) will still translate to two RF frequencies close together...those can simulate a carrier and its single steady-amplitude AM tone content. [relative amplitudes of the pair will simulate anything from percentage modulation (as with AM) or the carrier suppression (of SSB).

What happens at AF to RF translation in THIS group is the emotional-baggage tie-in to the mythos of morse such that direct RF on-off keying is somehow a "pure way" to send "CW." Those lost in the mythos will contentiously state that audio tone generation (with on-off keying of the audio) translated to RF is "false" or "artificial." Those folks just haven't made the connection to spectral content of ANY modulated signal...a few even contend that "CW" (on-off keying) "has no sidebands" because "it is just turned on or off!" :-)

Perhaps worse is the group that believes all-Class-C transmitters are "pure" in their spectral content (as if those had no harmonics)!
Sigh... :-(

Of course it should be so. <screwball grin>

Firstly, amateur radio is a national service (like the military) and all amateurs are portrayed as emergency-rescue heroes vital to the country. Ergo, since the FCC allows morsemanship to occur on ham bands, "naturally" there must be a test for it.

That's the thinking of the morse mavens who inhabit this Din of Inequity.

Robesin claims to be a nurse. Nurses are supposed to be considerate of those with medical problems...yet Robesin was cruel and a bully to Morgan without consideration of his dyslexia. Continually.

But, acting the bully was TYPICAL for Robesin anytime someone disagreed with anything he said. Ergo, that made Robesin a classic catalyst to bring others (mostly anonymous) in here to increase the filthy postings.

The slightest disagreement with Robesin would set him off. He was/is a loose cannon, firing off round after round of filth at all those he didn't like (practically everyone posting after a while).

There's thousands of archived postings to prove all the charges. There's lots of memories among those of us who've been reading the newsgroup for years.

If you mean they use a keyed audio tone fed into an SSB transmitter,
I think you are mistaken, Len.

Name some HF transceivers in use today that use a keyed audio tone fed into an SSB transmitter as the way to generate "CW".

I don't think you can. I think you're just guessing.

Or maybe you intentionally imbed false statements in your posts as a way of attracting attention to yourself....

The same result can be had by using a carrier oscillator and keying one of the low level amplifier stages.

> The first RTTY radio circuits,

"RTTY radio circuit" is redundant, Len, because the R in "RTTY" means
"radio".

It's like saying "PIN number" or "ATM machine". ;-)

A PROFESSIONAL writer would know that, I think.....

As I have previously written, if you can't tell the difference on a spectrum analyzer....

Who believes that, Len?

Class C amplifiers can certainly produce clean signals. They just need the appropriate amount of filtering of their output to reduce harmonics to an acceptable level.

Mork, Wiseman, and Daugherty have all been in NYC auditioning for the upcoming Teletubbies season. Mork wants to play Tinky Winky and Toad wants to play La La. Woger has not told anyone what part he is going out for, because he says he just happens to know the guy from Glendale, who is auditioning for the Teletubbies show (and it isn't him, Lardass.)

I have posted test meesages it will be a farce amoug the rejected post is a very mild post calling fraud fraud when one poster will alter a line in the quoting of text and it will be refused as off topic to call it the fraud that it is the Porposed NG will be quiet and useless for any real discussion also rejects the notion that anyone will mange to get around the moderator wether by hacking or mistake and there is somebody does those posts can spew all kind of vile and the target will be premitted

NO response at all

You may modulate the carrier with a tone but then it is not actually "CW" anymore.

You may not think definitions are not important or consider those who wish to adhere to important definitions to be carrying emotional baggage, but definitions do have value and can be essential.

Remember the story of the 1800's era Indiana state legislure passing a law to refine pie by rounding it off from 3.1415 to 3?

Those lost in the mythos
> will contentiously state that audio tone generation > (with on-off keying of the audio) translated to RF > is "false" or "artificial."

Without on/off keying of the RF, it is simply is not "CW". I give you this; you could call audio code that generates 2 RF states such as mark/space to be "CW's" (continuous waveS). When the frequency or phase changes to a different value from the original value, the "wave" ceases to be continuous.
However, you could conceive of the two RF states as being 2 continuous waves that are either present or not, similar to 2 A1A transmissions (where one continuous wave is present or not).

They are not equivalent. Not the same as A1A Morse. I do not consider belief in fact to be emotional baggage.

Those folks just > haven't made the connection to spectral content of

Actually. I have never heard anybody say that. I have heard your Canadian compatriot talk about transmitting "pure" sine waves which almost imples no sidebands, when not considering on/off rise and fall times when the RF is keyed (which he seems to ignore when he say says "pure sine waves").

> Perhaps worse is the group that believes

Again, most people who talk about "Class C" amplifiers are familiar with their bias points being set above cut-off value for increased efficiency, therefore they have distorted outputs and such people would know know that they therefore generate lots of harmomics (and in some cases are intended to, as in the case of frequency markers). Those who are not aware of this do not tend not to speak about "Class C" amplifiers, specifically. They just talk about their "linear AMPS" (which are hopefully biased at more like AB than C :-))

NO, I'm talking about resutls.

We weren't talking about double sideband, presumably with a carrier.
We were talking about an SSB transmitter.

You can't get a signal that "looks and sounds like CW" if you feed an audio tone into a transmitter that has a carrier, and/or has two sidebands. There will at the very least be the carrier and a signal offset from that carrier by the frequency of the audio tone. If there are two sidebands, there will be the carrier and then two signals (both offset from the carrier by the frequency of the audio tone). In neither of these cases will there be a CW signal.

But feed a pure enough sinewave into an SSB transmitter that has good carrier balance and good unwanted sideband supression, and you have a CW signal. It doesn't matter how it's generated, it matters whether it "looks and sounds like CW".

If you were talking about whistling into an AM (ie dsb with carrier) transmitter) then all you can ever get is "MCW", aka Modulated CW.

If I misread what kind of transmitter you were talking about, it was precisly because there is absolutely no way you can get a CW signal by whistling into an AM (DSB with carrier) transmitter. YOu were the one who said you were a good whistler.

No, I went back and you were talking about a sideband transmitter.

The results are the results. YOu can't get a CW signal out of an AM transmitter by injecting an audio tone into it. The output signal will be the giveaway, and it doesn't matter what method you use.

But if you inject an tone into an SSB transmitter, the results will be exactly the same as a CW signal, so long as the sinewave is pure and that ssb transmitter is in good shape.

It's no longer "tone modulated" because you are only issuing a single frequency.

An AM transmitter does not transmit a signal where the carrier goes up and down in amplitude. It is a composite signal of three signals. The carrier, which in effect gets to the antenna because of feedthrough. Then the two sidebands. Feed a fixed audio tone (say 1KHz) into that transmitter and you get three signals in the output of that transmitter, the carrier, and the two sidebands at 1KHz above and below that carrier. Obviously that can never be a CW signal. But it does show that the modulating tone is translated to radio frequency. Suppress the carrier, and the carrier is gone from the output, with the two sidebands still there, which means two signals each offset from the frequency of the missing carrier. Suppress the unwanted sideband from that, and you get a single frequency, which is no different from a carrier out of a CW transmitter.

When you whistle into an SSB transmitter, it can't be CW for the simple reason that it won't be a pure tone, and the microphone will pick up background noise, and you will no longer have a single frequency output from the transmitter.

ONe of your previous posts was about your interpretation of what was wanted, but it wasn't about understanding what was being sent. The FCC or any regulatory body doesn't care whether you key an RF oscillator on and off to generate CW, or if you inject a tone into an SSB transmitter. They care about the results. Hence if the tone isn't pure, or the SSB transmitter is not suppressing the carrier or unwanted sideband enough, then you have an amplitude modulated signal of some sort, and of course it isn't allowed in the CW sub-band. But neither can you run an AM transmitter in the CW sub-bands and start modulating it with anything into the microphone input.

"Acoustic coupling" has nothing to do with what type of signal is being sent, except so far as it affects the purity of the output signal.

You are confusing Modulated CW with using a pure tone with a good SSB transmitter. The former will always be an MCW signal, the latter will be a CW signal so long as things are well adjusted and pure.

"When I told Abbie Hoffman that he was the first one who made me laugh since Lenny Bruce died, Hoffman said, "Really? He was my god." The combination of satirical irreverence and sense of justice that Bruce and Hoffman shared was the real spirit behind the Yippies--a term I coined to describe a phenomenon that already existed: an organic coalition of stoned hippies and political activists who engaged in such actions as throwing money on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, then explaining to reporters the meaning of that symbolism. Folksinger Phil Ochs summed it up: "A demonstration should turn you on, not turn you not the ProCode test they NEVER adherded to reality we never tested for CW we tested for Morse Code

Hellschieber is also CW as RTTY can (although this type of is not lonnger used to my knowledge) and clamed virutes for Morse that belong to equaly to these other modes in many and mixing them with virtue that did belong to MorseCoded CW properly

First let me say that, in amateur radio use, the term "CW", when used to mean a mode of radio communication, is universally defined as "Morse Code radiotelegraphy by means of an on-off keyed carrier". The literal "continuous wave" meaning does not apply.

No, that's just not true - IF the rig and tone are clean enough.

Problems arise when the tone is not a pure sinusoid, or the transmitter does not have adequate carrier- or unwanted sideband-suppression. But that's not what is being discussed here.

Feed a Morse-Code-keyed audio tone that is a pure sinusoid into an SSB transmitter of sufficient quality, and the result is "CW".

It doesn't matter how the tone gets into the transmitter, as long as the process doesn't introduce other tones or artifacts.

No, that's not true, unless the whistle isn't a pure sine wave.

> Using acoustic coupling (J3E), it becomes a slippery slope; first computer > generated tones, then human whistling, then humming and before you know it, > "talking" (di dah di dah etc.. and finally, "words" :-))

Not a slippery slope at all. All that matters is what it looks like to a spectrum analyzer. If the whistle is a pure sine wave, the output will be a single carrier. But if it's not a pure sine wave, the result will be spectrally different, and illegal.

>From a regulations standpoint, it does not matter how the signal is generated. What does matter is that it meets the standards of spectrum purity.

Now you might argue that a simple "CW" transmitter using keyed Class C stages and vacuum tubes can be much simpler, more electrically efficient, and certainly more elegant than a newfangled computer-SSB-transceiver-kluge-setup, yet deliver a signal of equal quality. That's true - but it's a different issue.

Sure you have, Mark. Just like you are a geophysicist, a Colonel in the Army, and a consultant.

How does a person who cannot spell "negitive", prove one?

I give up. You keep talking about how the signal looks when it is received. I keep talking about how the true A1A signal is supposed to be transmitted (your last paragraph is exactly that but you dismissed it).
Part 97 is not concerned with how you receive, only how you transmit. I agree it is true that you can fool anyone on the receiving end as long as you can make the signal look like A1A on a spectrum analyzer. That might be difficult because the sidebands generated by breaking a CW "square" wave would be present on my A1A transmission and you would somehow have to re-create them on your SSB pure tone transmission that is keyed in your tightly filtered audio circuit. But re-check the definition of A1A and you will see that there is only one way to transmit it. And A1A is the only FCC definition of "CW". It is a moot point because tone generated data (as a sinusoidal "mark" in your SSB transmission) is legal everywhere that CW is legal. The same is not true of the voluntary band plans. It it is important to know the difference, even if you think the difference makes no difference so to speak. And I said that whistling CW into the mike is J3E voice, not A1A, and the only thing that separates it from being legal on the CW sub-bands is the way the data is coupled, not how it is received or transmitted. You completely missed all of my points.

Your fixation with Robesin has gone well past simply responding to his comments. You've turned into a stalker and your cruel comments about his deceased daughter put you on a nasty level far lower than anything Robesin has ever done.

No, there is a reason why those awards are /unique/. Until someone does something that matches or exceeds Ying-A-Ling in all those departments, the Brown Clownpants award stays in retirement. Besides, that kind of

I just recorded the CotM for Wabbit. I'd consider a Goofy Azzed Babboon, except that Wabbit is trolling with his fupped duck typing in imitation of "an old friend" Mark, who I'm ruling is immune from the GAB and the GAB alone on the basis of his dyslexia (There, two rulings in

It has come to the attention of a select few in Law Enforcement that Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ, has violated Federal Law in that he has illegally wrested control of a web site, http://www.marksspamblog.blogspot.com/ away from the original creator. Mr. Morgan exploited weaknesses in the log-in and registration procedures and provided false information to Google in so doing.

Morgan is apparently unaware that in so doing, he violated Federal Regulations making such acts illegal.

Mister Morgan has since been reported to the proper authorities and copies of his illegally gained web site have been recorded and saved for future legal proceedings.

His act is a Felony under current regulations.

He used a replyable address. It may well bounce, but lots of real addresses bounce. The point is, the latter portion is not munged, as it usually is, and you have multiple addies, too, so how is anyone who doesn't know you to know which is real?

That's fucked up. There is an award just for one poster. This award is special because it was desperately created before they finally gave up the ideas of giving someone more kook awards. The accusation was for lack of practice in perl script, how funny, compariable skills in c++ was not good enough. But really this award is so called no-need-for-conviction award.

No, I don't.

I'm talking about what the signal produced by the transmitter looks like on a spectrum analyzer

>I keep talking about how the true A1A signal is supposed to be

The basic point is this: FCC doesn't care how you generate a "CW" signal,
as long as it meets the technical requirements.

> Part 97 is not concerned with how you receive, only how you transmit.

Not "how" you transmit but "what" you transmit. The characteristics of the transmitted signal are what matters, not the technology used to generate it.

>I
> agree it is true that you can fool anyone on the receiving end as long as

Not about fooling anyone. It's about meeting the technical requirements for signal quality.

>That might be

Show us.

Post the definition that says the way the signal is generated matters to FCC.

The way the data is coupled makes no difference. What matters are the characteristics of the transmitted signal.

In practice, I don't think anyone could whistle into a mike so perfectly as to produce a "CW" signal that would be indistinguishable from one generated by more conventional means. But that's not the point.

No, I simply pointed out your errors in interpretation of the rules.

You aren't replying to one of my posts, UnWiseman. As I've repeatedly pointed out to you, I post under no name but my own.

No one sees Roger Wiseman behind corners or trees. He is much too fearful for that to happen. Roger hides behind sock puppets here in usenet and posts filth. When the moderated newsgroup comes into being, we won't have to deal with him. It really is that simple.

I believe you've made another of your factual errors, Leonard.

Collins used to use this method in the KWM-2A. Unfortunately, the company used a 1375 Hz tone--too high for anything but casual CW use.

Robesin can't do the stand-up thing. Instead he sues you, and then posts the infamous excrement eating post.

Some of the anymous posting are Robesin.

It has nothing to do with coupling. If you think the rules disallow the method of a tone into an SSB transmitter, then it would most definitely disallow whistling into the microphone.

Here. I cooked up an example that might hopefully explain all this, but at this point I doubt it.

Take a 2MHz oscillator, and you key that (or, key a buffer stage after that). Put it into a mixer, and the second input of the mixer is a 5MHz oscillator. Amplify it and feed it to the antenna. Now you've got a signal with a carrier (5MHz) and two sidebands (3MHz and 7MHz), not a good signal.

So you make the mixer balanced so the oscillators don't appear at the output.
That gets rid of the 5MHz "carrier", which leaves the two sidebands in place.
But you don't want that, so you add some filtering to get rid of the unwanted sideband, let's make it the 3MHz signal.

Thus you now end up with a 7MHz signal.

How is this different from a 7MHz crystal oscillator being keyed and then amplified and feeding the antenna?

How is this different from any number of SSB transmitters that also send CW?

The rules don't allow it? But then a lot of SSB rigs break the rules, and that really fancy CW transmitter described in QST in the fall of 1971 would also break the rules.

Oh wait, it's legal.

But then why would a tone into an SSB transmitter be illegal according to the rules? The tone becomes the 2MHz oscillator. It's the same principle, just with a lower frequency being mixed with a radio freqeuncy.

Of course you're going to get in trouble if you heterodyne two oscillators together and don't get rid of the unwanted signals.

But, look at the output of the transmitter, and if it's designed properly and adjusted properly, you cannot tell the difference between that heterodyne transmitter and that simple 1 oscillator transmitter. You have one radio signal at the output of that transmitter, and you can't tell how it is generated.

Same with injecting a tone into an SSB transmitter. You will get one signal at the output of that transmitter if the tone is pure enough and carrier and unwanted sideband are properly suppressed.

You want to come up with some special case for this method, when the other rules would take care of any problems.

If you've got more than one signal out of that transmitter, then you've got a spur, and there are rules about that. The rules aren't about how you can generate a spur-free signal, or allow spurs if you followed a certain scheme, they are about not allowing spurs.

Take your simple CW transmitter. So the AC from the filament starts modulating the oscillator tube, and suddenly you have an AM signal (ie the keyed carrier and the two sidebands caused by the 60Hz ac signal).

Nobody is going to say "Oh, you've done that wrong, it's illegal". They are going to say "You'd better do something about that AM signal in the CW band".

Use an audio tone with harmonic content into the SSB transmitter and then that signal when translated to radio frequencies will result in multiple outputs, which is against the law. Have bad carrier suppression in the SSB transmitter, and you'll get two outputs, again something which is against the law. Have bad unwanted carrier suppression and you'll have to sidebands at the output of that transmitter, yet again something against the rules.

But do it properly, and wham, you only have one signal and nobody know, or cares, how you generate it. Once again, it's no different than a crystal oscillator feeding an amplifier; nobody cares how you generate that CW signal, but they will care a lot if you've got hum on the signal or you've got a harmonic.

In the end, you are waving your hands at your interpretation of the rules, but can't even dig up those rules that you think mean what you say. Yet you also can't explain the KWM-2 that used tone injection to generate CW (surely Collins wouldn't have used the method if it wasn't allowed) and I"m sure there were some other rigs of that same vintage that used the same scheme. There were certainly articles in the ham magazines about using the method to add CW to rigs that were SSB only.

You can't explain all those hams who used a frequency shifted audio oscillator into an SSB transmitter to get FSK. Surely that would be wrong if the FCC didn't allow the use of a tone to generate CW with an SSB transmitter, though the principal is exactly the same.

That's an easy one, hot-ham-and-cheese. I don't go into a rant like Leonard Anderson. I don't pontificate in long, windy posts like Leonard Anderson. Unlike Leonard Anderson, I don't pretend to be a part of an endeavor in which I am not involved.

I don't believe so, hot-ham-and-cheese. As long as the folks who have a problem with me are you, Mark Morgan, Leonard Anderson and the demented Roger Wiseman, I'm not going to worry about it.

The proposed new newsgroup should take care of most of the demented, those who can't stick with a topic and those who lack self-control.

How long would you give anyone who writes "Sister Nun of the Above" or "koks on parade" in the new group?

Mark's sexuality and the kinky things he considers to be "fun" became an issue because anyone who did a search on his "konstans" name was treated to a personals ad that would make the average person gag. His "sex wanted" ad was posted in a newsgroup--the equivalent of posting a message on the bulletin board of a grocery store. Mark can't be surprised at the reaction of those who find his deviant interests appalling.

So I hear... I gather it was you that posted those messages that got rejected then? By our design, folks that get three posts rejected in a row get reviewed by the appeals board and blacklisted if they agree with the moderator(s). I understand this has happened to you, so your messages are no longer moderated, just dumped.

We will reset the system should the news group be approved, so you got one more chance if/when the proposed group is approved.

I guess it's pointless to debate the RFD further with you then?

I don't think Paul Schleck knows what kind of slippery devils he is dealing with. Every line of any Robesin posting will have to be read, including the attribute chain for possible forging, and any text being quoted will have to be compared to the original.

I don't think they're up to it, therefore, Robesin will keep sliding his zingers through, and nothing will happen. Just like nothing happens now except that you drove the little squirrel underground. You won't be able to drive him underground in the moderated group, and he will continue sliding accusations of rape right on through.

> the Porposed NG will be quiet and useless for any real discussion

Which is what Miccolis and Coslo wanted from the gitgo. Just PCTA agreeing with PCTA.

Correct. Robesin might have to take a hit and play nice for a couple of weeks, til he sees the opportunity to slide some more filth into the new group. A man without conscience.

Oh, I tried it for a couple of weeks and couldn't stand myself. Maybe if Robesin had slipped up and posted his famous "eating his excrement

The only thing that can change my mind is you, and I'm confident that you won't. So you'll just have to live with it, comfortably if you must, for a long, long time.

Yeh? Does that mean that I am incapable of holding the Roanoke Division Director position or some other position of leadership? What was it you said about people's spelling; then almost immediately posted with a misspelled word? Sheesh. You could learn a thing or two from yourself. Like quit playing spelling cop.

Why ask me? I'm not a moderator, and you'll have a helluva time

Thanks, but Mark has no reason to "out-asshole" me.

I think his bedroom preferences are off-topic in an amateur radio news group, and have no idea why anyone would go out to the web and bring something like that back here.

Mark will talk ham radio with you if you like, or we can go on talking about why this newsgroup has become all about Robesin.

> Again, using Robesin as an excuse to post 300 to 400 times a week, and to

I might have agreed with you except that I have seen Robesin viciously attack other people on RRAP, myself included. Now I have no disagreement with any method used to control Robesin. But thanks for asking.

> Mark is rude.

He can be, but so can I. Ditto you.

> He is thoughtless.

Actually, no. Robesin has deeply hurt Mark. An apology is in order.

> Robesin didn't cause that.

Sure he has.

> I could touch on Mark's obvious mental illness, but there is little need for that, is there?

Dyslexia is not a mental illness. Mark is fine when he's not being made fun of or being accused of lyng or rape. Try treating Mark as a human being and he will respond in kind. If you respect yourself it will be a lot easier to respect other people. Best of Luck.

I'm not reading it. It's not only off-topic, but it's none of my business. It was malicious, and meant to hurt.

What am I to think of the stuff posted to RRAP about your wife? Is it safe for me to assume that it was off-topic and none of my business?
Is it safe for me to assume that it was malicious, and meant to hurt you?

Maybe that's why you're such a prick - you have no compassion for other people's feelings.

Mark, what is obvious is the fact that you are not wanted anywhere. Why do find it necessary to continue to defend your "valor"?

Ummm....surprize, I am not/never was pro-code "test" but I think copying code in one's head once in a while is a good mental exercise. Do you ever do anything to exercise the mind? The physical analogue would be riding a bicycle. It has value and can be enjoyable for some but I agree you should not have to pass a bicycle riding test to get an automobile drivers license.

However, as a driver, I guess I would be slightly embarrassed if people found out I did not know how to ride a bike ;-))

I don't usually accept usenet challenges for cites since I have other things to do but what the hey, you seem like a decent guy so I made an exception:
97.3 Definitions.
(c) The following terms are used in this Part to indicate emission types.
Refer to 2.201 of the FCC Rules, Emission, modulation and transmission characteristics, for information on emission type designators.

(1) CW. International Morse code telegraphy emissions having designators with A, C, H, J or R as the first symbol; 1 as the second symbol; A or B as the third symbol; and emissions J2A and J2B.
M = Modulation Type

N None
A AM (Amplitude Modulation), double sideband, full carrier
H AM, single sideband, full carrier
R AM, single sideband, reduced or controlled carrier
J AM, single sideband, suppressed carrier
B AM, independent sidebands
C AM, vestigial sideband (commonly analog TV)

F Angle-modulated, straight FM
G Angle-modulated, phase modulation (common; sounds like FM)

D Carrier is amplitude and angle modulated

P Pulse, no modulation
K Pulse, amplitude modulation (PAM, PSM)
L Pulse, width modulation (PWM)
M Pulse, phase or position modulation (PPM)
Q Pulse, carrier also angle-modulated during pulse W Pulse, two or more modes used

X All cases not covered above

N = Nature of modulating signal

0 None
1 Digital, on-off or quantized, no modulation
2 Digital, with modulation
3 Single analog channel
7 Two or more digital channels
8 Two or more analog channels

9 Composite, one or more digital channel, one or more analog

X All cases not covered above

I = Information type

N None
A Aural telegraphy, for people (Morse code)
B Telegraphy for machine copy (RTTY, fast Morse)
C Analog fax
D Data, telemetry, telecommand
E Telephony, voice, sound broadcasting
F Video, television
W Combinations of the above

X All cases not covered above

Note that, in general, every permitted CW emission is AM and has a "1" in the middle. Note that it must be in Morse (I assume you agreed with that). J2 (SSB) is allowed (for what it's worth) but note that it must be either keyed on/off or quantized (digital).
Note that in no case is any form analog modulation permitted in the FCC definition. It may only be on/off keyed or "on/off" by digital modulation. Tones are analog transmissions. You cannot use the RTTY "mark" tone as FCC-defined CW.
Checkmate.

Heil will not agree. He is a code-tested extra, therefore (in his own perception) the Big Cheese.

That many readers (more than he realizes) have perceived him as Limburger is no mystery.

>> >> I do understand that you do. I can live

A smug, arrogant prick...one who thinks he can push others around as a bluffing bully.

When Heil came in here, he thought he could amaze and astound other hams by his State Department "experience." Very, very few hams in here have come close to that. Ripe set-up for a snow-job of "stories" of his mighty foreign radio "work."

What Heil didn't expect is someone who had MORE experience with HF and up comms in a much bigger network, earlier than he did. Worse yet, it was someone not licensed in amateur radio and not making any attempt to be IN amateur radio! :-) Even worse is that I'd shortly have a photo essay on it available to any on the 'net. His attempts at snow-jobs turned into slush.

Heil tried some more snow-jobbery on the group trying to "explain" what he said, but (to me) it was all penny-ante stuff regardless of the exotic locales. Heil got all defensive about it and tried to bluff his way out...then changed to a long-running tactic of trying to depreciate anything and everything I did. :-) That wasn't out of character for him because he acted the same way to others that didn't agree with him... and still does. [see his depreciating "redhatted monkey" remarks to you]

Heil tried a schtick about my "secret yearning" to be a ham and then ruler-spanking me for "faults" when I refused give in to his juvenile personality thrashing. Fact is, I've NO "secret yearning" or any desire to get an amateur radio license. I've had a Commercial radio operator license for 50 years, have been in the radio-electronics industry since 1951, have retired from regular office hours, don't have any need for pseudo-nobility of putting an amateur radio callsign behind my name. My advocacy has always been to eliminate the morse code test for a US amateur radio license. No more in amateur radio.
That code test elimination is very, very close to becoming FACT.

[there will be a pause while Miccolis tries to think up some depreciating barb such as "does this mean that...?" :-)]

>The only thing that can change my mind is you, and I'm confident that

Heil is ego-driven, desirous of being "boss" in his amateur radio experience. That's shown by his trying to push others around, find "fault" with them and their "motivations." Always.

Heil gets very confused on motivations. He just can't understand anyone advocating the end of something in government regulations pertaining to "something they aren't part of" and (worse) not expressing any great desire to be "part of" it.
He can't understand that because his sense of altruism just isn't there...it doesn't fit in with his own selfishness.

Heil is little different than Miccolis or Herman or Fiscus (aka "slow code") and a few other morse maven extras. They all have an ego drive to be "better than others" (and flaunt it) because of their morsemanship. I put Heil, Miccolis, et al, in the very same classification as Robeson...the only thing different is their "cannons" aren't as loose. The same drive to be "better" than others, have more "rank," have more "status." Sigh...old, old story among humans. :-(

Heil will never quit that. It's about the only trick left in his book to be "better than others." He makes out like he is "clever" then stumbles over his own words and gets a compound fracture. DUMB.

No problem to "established" extras who are morsemen.
Those (proposed) newsgroup moderators will heap gratuitous praise on one of their "brethren." Some kind of Three Musketeers thing..."all for one and one for all." [this ain't France...] :-)

Poor Heil...after all his effort to get a tailored Waffen SS uniform...which more resembles a Sister's habit or that of a "red-hatted monkey" for his buddy, war-veteran radio hero Miccolis (Sister Nun of the Above). Heil's organ cranks right along.

I won't be going to this moderated kaffe klatch of morse mavens. The ARRL already exists to do that sort of propaganda and provide emotional wish-fulfillment for hams dreaming to do "great things."

I'll stay with my own little radio hobby because it is FUN for me and doesn't require all those Titles and Rank and Status grabbing or trying to be "better" than all others through federal certification.
I've been saying all along that US amateur radio should be a fun hobby, enjoyed by many just for the sake of radio itself. Instead, the examples shown in here are of ego-driven, one-upmanship-driven, status-title-rank seekers who just selfishly want to CONTROL others.

If Heil, Miccolis, Fiscus, Robeson are examples of today's US amateur radio, I would NOT want to be part of it.

No, and you know that's not what I'm asking. Did you post to ANYWHERE on Usenet that you were asking for a partner or a person to have sex with?

That is typical of Mark. Being banned, blacklisted, etc., is NEVER his fault. It is always somebody else's fault, isn't it? It is always a "scurous trick" that seems to happen only to Mark.

Stop being a crybaby. You've earned what you've received. You are not well liked and you are not wanted in most groups and have been effectively banned from those that have control. What part of this do you not understand?

If we're talking about the non-voice parts of the AM bands, I agree.
Frequency-shift Morse is allowed elsewhere but that's a different issue.

> Note that it must be in Morse (I assume you agreed with that).

Other codes are allowed, but if they are used, the designation is different because they are considered data modes.

Agreed - but that on-off keying may be accomplished in any way that results in the transmitted signal meeting the requirements.

> Tones are analog transmissions. You cannot use the RTTY "mark" tone as > FCC-defined CW.

Not if there's also a space tone.

But that's not what's being discussed.

If you have an SSB transmitter of good quality (meaning good carrier and unwanted sideband suppression), and you feed a sine wave audio tone into the audio input,
the resulting RF output is a single carrier frequency.

If you then turn the audio tone on and off with Morse Code timing, the result is a Morse Code keyed RF carrier that is no different than a Morse Code keyed RF carrier generated any other way.

In the cited regulations, I see no mention of how the signal is generated, only what the resulting RF output characteristics are.

Hi All,
I've been following along the discussions.
And Mr. Brock, I have to say I personally am in favor of discussion of the NG's topic. Self-moderation has proven it's self to lead to name calling, personal attacks, CB'ers attacking hams and may more such useless posts and cross posts.
I agree with KH6HZ , who said

"Great proposal.
Can't wait to cast my vote for the affirmative."

I think KH6HZ has hit the nail on the head. I couldn't have said it better.

Oh, look, Wabbit's graduated to support group trolling! I think you have a bright future as a net.kook, Wabbit. FTR, those of you who have just been introduced to the above Coward of the Month nominee may be interested to know that he is either Roger "Woger (Wabbit)" Wiseman (notorious pedo-k00k) or a dedicated follower and imitator of that lamer's style of posting -- it's impossible to tell, since he never posts under a legalname to which he is willing to lay claim, or at least not while acknowledging any of his socks. Homo-/biphobia is one of the hallmarks of his posts, as well as laming Mark for his dyslexia. He is a mission poster, intent on bullying Mark Morgan off of ham radio, usenet, and the blogs, through frogging, forgery, stalking, and threats against both Mark and his family, primarily due to Mark's bisexuality.

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. True, I think Wabbit deserves recognition for "skillz" in k00ky kombat.
I'll let another make that nomination, though.

I didn't make a test post. Mark says he did, using my words.
It seems that Mark submits off-topic material and it gets rejected. A sharper guy would get the message. Mark continues to try pounding the square peg into the round hole.

It should be quickly obvious that Wiseman's filth-o-grams won't make it through and that a lengthy string of Mark's "gte hlep" posts will not appear.

That's one explanation.

Perhaps the subject matter of your posts is unacceptable to the new newsgroup?

Actually there's no reason to make it dependent on a vote. Those who do not wish to participate in a moderated group can continue here. This group is not being eliminated. There is simply a new group being added.

In general, no one can prove that he is not guilty. The point of logic is: In general, negative assertions cannot be proved. That's why, in this country, a person is presumed innocent until he is proved guilty. An alibi proves a positive assertion, i.e. that one was physically somewhere else at the time of the crime.

Imagine the problem presented to the women accused of being witches during the Salem witch trials. They were required to prove that they were not witches. They were presumed guilty until proved innocent which was a logical impossibility.

This characteristic of logic carries over into conditional statements. If the 'if' portion of an 'if/then' conditional logic statement is false, then the entire statement is true by definition. The following is a true statement.

"If the moon were made out of green cheese, then a cow could indeed jump over it."

more likely than me being able to hack into I agree but hacking google was not needed

they set up the blog to automaticaly email one of my accounts with send their passward to the email address they claimed was theirs and of course since the email address was mine I receieved and shut

Brian, I've said it before and I'll say it again: My advocacy was for the elimination of the code test for any US amateur radio license. Since that is almost a legal fact, I won't be bothering the happy little in-group of middle-aged-crisis morse mavens that the moderated group evidences becoming. I find NO joy in keeping up the farcical fantasy of amateur radio constantly recreating "pioneer" times in radio a half century after the actual pioneering...or, worse yet, their idea that having a radio hobby is somehow "serving their country." The way that most of the morsemen act is like the re-enacters of old battles such as the American Civil War...AS IF they are the "generals" who - this time - will ensure that the South won, not lost.

:-([in their minds maybe, but not in reality]

I've found that ALL of electronics ("radio" is a subset of that) is a fascinating subject and still find it so. By itself.
I don't need some "national organization" to tell me so or pump up my wish-fulfillment. There's an infinity more yet to come as the technology continues to evolve. I'll keep on with that. Those that strive for Control, for putting up a facade of being "better" at ancient skills, can go have their opinion orgasms in a tight little enclave of elite "gods of radio" full of "contests" and exhortations of "mastering" morse (because they think they did) and all "should" be nearly as good as they are.

...just waiting for FCC 06-178 to become legal law...

Perhaps...perhaps not. There is indeed a vote. Anyway, I'm sure that Given the lack of replies, I guess it wasn't an inside joke. Mark, why do you worry about it so much? If they want a private country club type atmosphere, and those who control the Big 8 don't mind allocating the resources to it, why not let them have a little place of their own. Don't worry, this place isn't going anywhere and they won't be able to resist dropping by to do what they have always done before they retreat back to the country club to brag.

Frankly, I see it as a waste of band space, but band space is cheap these days. Look it as a consolation prize now that they have to share all those HF frequencies with people who didn't lean the code, they can at least have a little piece of cyberspace. Why the didn't go to Yahoo groups or Myspacegroups still eludes me and no one has cared to reply. Must be some kind of a prestige thing.

It's OK though, because I really don't care what they do or where they do it. Freedom of speech is a great thing even if some have to feel protected to exercise it.

You have been taken in by the oldest scam in ham radio. Your logs mean nothing because you never did moonbounce after all and just talked to a guy with a 100 mw qrp rig somewheres nearby. We are all laughing at you.

Oh, PorchMonkey4Life is currently "attacking" AUK -- he dances very well, IMHO, as k00ks go, though I don't know that his froth is up to Warholian levels (but it might be). His favourite new trick is (incompetent) frogging & forgery (he picked it up from K-Man, but since he's a k00k, he's very bad at it), and Ying and I are two of his favourite targets. He's also would-be Outer Filth (see my sig), and is currently deluded into believing I live in Maple Ridge, B.C. He thinks "furries" refers to "gerbiling", which is so preposterous that I've already died laughing several times. He's now up for five awards, all of which have been seconded: Kook of the Month, Order of the Holey Sockpuppet, Palmjob Paddle, Tony Sidaway "Drama Queen" Award (for his very foamy meltdown of incompetent forgery/frogging), and the Busted Urinal (for his scat fetish, his gay/pedo/incest lames, and the "furry" stuff).

Wabbit, Coward of the month nominee for January 2007, is sort of the Monkey-man of rec.radio.* He lives to harass Mark C. Morgan (this past summer's Golden Killfile winner), and is either Wiseman or his protï¿½gï¿½
-- apparently, way back when, Woger initiated the harassment because Mark's <gasp> <shocked whisper> bisexual, a fact he revealed after Steve Robeson tried to blackmail him into shutting up (either on the group or on ham radio, or both) -- either way, it doesn't matter, because the froggery, forgery, and sexual harassment (the gay lames) are, well, lame and cowardly. If he chooses not to post under his own name, nick, or nym (and acknowledge the names, nicks, and nyms he's frogged and forged), then he can accept the moniker I've given him. Or, of course, he can wail and scream and cry and stamp his feet and swear, if he likes. I haven't used my Office of Darth Bawl nominating power yet this month.

Nah, that's Wabbit, the ambiguously identified coward. Might be Woger, might be Woger's follower. Whatever, he's the competition for Robert "Mop Jockey" Wolfe, another coward of stellar proportions.

Now, now, Wabbit, laming Lloyd Davies instead of Mark Morgan doesn't change your lameness or your cowardly nature. Your continuing attempts to use AUK to harass Mark and others are even more clueless than they are cowardly and lame, since that sort of thing is explicitly prohibited in the AUK FAQ as a means of fighting a flamewar. It only earns k00k awards for the one(s) doing it, unless both sides are doing it, in which case, the entire group would receive nominations.

These are the numbers of current, unexpired amateur radio licenses held by individuals on the stated dates, and the percentage of the total number of active licenses that class contains:

As of May 14, 2000:

Novice - 49,329 (7.3%)
Technician - 205,394 (30.4%)
Technician Plus - 128,860 (19.1%)
General - 112,677 (16.7%)
Advanced - 99,782 (14.8%)
Extra - 78,750 (11.7%)

Total Tech/TechPlus - 334,254 (49.5%)

Total General/Advanced/Extra - 291,209 (43.2%)

Total all classes - 674,792

As of January 15, 2007:

Novice - 23,423 (3.6%) [decrease of 25,906]
Technician - 290,646 (44.4%) [increase of 85,252]
Technician Plus - 32,321 (4.9%) [decrease of 96,539]
General - 130,825 (20.0%) [increase of 18,148]
Advanced - 69,651 (10.6%) [decrease of 30,131]
Extra - 108,219 (16.5%) [increase of 29,469]

(percentages may not add up to exactly 100.0% due to rounding)

Total Tech/TechPlus - 322,967 (49.3%) [decrease of 11,287]

Total General/Advanced/Extra - 308,695 (47.1%) [increase of 17,486]

Total all classes - 655,085 (decrease of 19,707)

Note that these totals do not include licenses that have expired but are in the grace period.

They also do not include club, military or other station-only licenses.

Note also that effective April 15, 2000, new Novice, Technician Plus and Advanced licenses are no longer issued.

Since April 15, 2000, FCC has renewed all existing Technician Plus licenses as Technician. By May of 2010, the number of Technician Plus licenses will drop to zero, because all of them will have been renewed as Technician or allowed to expire. It is therefore informative to consider the totals of the two classes, since the Technician class includes a significant number of Technician Plus licenses renewed as Technician.

That's never been disputed, Len.

The questions are:

Why? (since you are not involved in amateur radio)

and

What else is your advocacy about?

IOW, you won't be part of a moderated NG because you won't be able to misbehave there.

It's not about what you like, Len.

Your attitude seems to be that if it's not fun for you, nobody else should have fun doing it either.

That's just nonsense.

That's nice.

Amateur Radio isn't just about electronics, though.

How?

When's the last time you actually built a radio, Len? One with the latest technology you keep harping about? Something that was done for its own sake, not for money?

Sounds like you're jealous, Len.

There's a kind of person who, when confronted with something they can't do quite as well as some other folks, or who cannot dominate a group and force them to follow, proceed to put down the activity.

For example, the kid who wants to play baseball, and wants to be the pitcher - but simply can't throw as well as some of the others. So the kid puts down baseball as a dumb game and makes fun of those who play the game.

I wonder if Carl will be in attendance?

WRC-07 Preparations Dominate International Amateur Radio Union Calendar
NEWINGTON, CT, Jan 11, 2007 -- Preparations for World Radiocommunication Conference 2007 (WRC-07) dominate this year's International Amateur Radio Union (IARU) calendar. The International Telecommunication Union (ITU) gathering will get under way in Geneva on October 22 and continue through November 16. Some items on the WRC-07 agenda have the potential to directly or indirectly impact Amateur Radio.

"Agenda items of particular interest to the Amateur Services involve allocations in the 4-10 MHz range, a possible secondary allocation to the amateur service at 136 kHz, the modification of footnotes to the Table of Frequency Allocations, and the selection of agenda items for future WRCs, the next of which is tentatively slated for 2011," reports IARU Secretary David Sumner, K1ZZ, in the latest edition of the IARU E-Letter.

WRC-07 agenda item 1.13 will review allocations to all services between 4 and 10 MHz, excluding allocations from 7000 to 7200 kHz -- settled to the advantage of Amateur Radio during WRC-03. Starting in March 2009, radio amateurs will enjoy a worldwide 200 kHz segment on 40 meters.
WRC-07 delegates may revisit the 7200-7300 kHz segment with an eye toward attaining the IARU goal of a 300-kHz worldwide ham radio allocation, although no administration is known to be planning such a proposal.

WRC-07 agenda item 1.15 will consider establishing a secondary Amateur Radio Service allocation in the band 135.7 to 137.8 kHz. Several countries already have allocated that LF spectrum to Amateur Radio, although the FCC several years ago turned away an ARRL proposal to create a sliver band there for ham radio.

The next major WRC-07-related event is the Conference Preparatory Meeting (CPM) in Geneva February 19 through March 2.

"The CPM will finalize the technical report that will guide the WRC delegates' work," Sumner says. He explains that drafting of the CPM Report has occupied several ITU Radiocommunication Sector (ITU-R) working parties for the past three years. The report provides background information on each WRC-07 agenda item, various methods of addressing the agenda items and the advantages and disadvantages of each. "The inclusion or exclusion of single words in the draft CPM Report has been the topic of spirited debate, which no doubt will continue at the CPM."

Representing the IARU at the CPM will be IARU President Larry Price, W4RA, and Technical Representative Ken Pulfer, VE3PU. Other Amateur Radio representatives will be part of national delegations.

Regional and national preparatory meetings leading up to WRC-07 continue. The IARU's three regional organizations are responsible for participating in the work of the regional telecommunications organizations, including but not limited to CEPT (Europe), ATU (Africa), CITEL (the Americas), and APT (Asia-Pacific). Domestic preparations are the responsibility of the IARU member-societies in the respective countries.

The triennial conference of IARU Region 2 is another major 2007 IARU event. It takes place September 9-14 in Brasilia, Brazil. The 16th General Assembly of IARU Region 2 will bring together representatives of IARU member-societies from throughout the Americas to discuss matters of mutual interest and to elect officers for the next three years.

Spark Gap is as legal as amateur radio in the AM broadcast band.

Meaning, it isn't legal at all.

That group got special permission to experiment with a spark gap transmitter under very controlled/restrictive conditions. The special permission included operating it in the middle of the AM broadcast band.

Without the special authorization, it's not legal at all.

And they were simply playing with it, they weren't doing this with the hopes of bringing back the spark gap.

How will they do that?

Those folks aren't proposing to shut down RRAP. They are simply proposing to create a moderated version.

People will have the choice to post to either or both newsgroups. However, much of what gets posted to RRAP will not get through the moderation process on the other group.

Besides, why should it bother you if people who aren't on rrap decide what to do with it?

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

You need to get a newsreader. See those two dashes followed by a space? That's called a ".sig delimiter", and in a newsreader (one that works properly, mind you -- not OwiE, IOW), that gets stripped off automatically. Of course, for a newsreader, you need a real NSP, too, so you may well be fucked anyway.

> funny how the kooks and their little play mate marqueer can dish it out > but they can't take it!

You don't quite seem to get the meaning of the "Golden Killfile". It doesn't mean he's actually killfiled by the group as a whole, only that he's considered by the group to be a boring k00k. You, OTOH, are another matter -- calling kookologists "kooks" is a kooksign, for one thing, and rampant, raging homo-/biphobia is another.

explaining to reporters the meaning of that symbolism. Folksinger Phil Ochs summed it up: "A demonstration should turn you on, not turn you

Actually he does:

His rank as an amateur is "Pre-Beginner"

His title is "Kibitzer"

His status is "Inactive"

Yet the way he writes, he thinks he's better than everyone and anyone in amateur radio.

Really? ;-) I suppose some folks could have missed that, the first couple of hundred times he mentioned it.

Most of all, Len thinks his experiences of long ago in non-amateur radio should cause everyone in amateur radio to respect, honor and agree with him - regardless of how he behaves. Regardless of their own experience, education, knowledge and skills, all amateurs should yield to and support
Len's opinions over all others, never disagreeing with him or pointing out his errors of fact or logic.

So Len will achieve neophyte status once if ever he should obtain a license?

That has long been evident. Amateur radio makes Leonard angry. The ARRL makes Len angry. The idea that some radio ham knows more about a topic than him, makes Leonard angry. Len has problems with authority, seniority, titles, the Morse Code (and those who use it) and with mere amateurs who do something for the love of it.

I figured that there were people who might have missed that or the story of Len's "BIG TIME" in HF radio. For a guy who doesn't need status, Len certainly takes every opportunity to remind us of his status.

That pretty well sums it up. Have you noticed that every time I bring up Len's sphincter post, he goes silent for a period? He has never acknowledged it as a bald-faced whopper. He likewise clammed up when I pointed out his denigration of a fellow military veteran (me), yet he is quick to wrap himself in bunting, mount the soapbox and rail against any perceived slight to himself as a military veteran. Len is a riddle, wrapped in an enigma and dipped in red, white and blue.

I have him pegged as an angry old guy who happened to choose amateur radio as his target.

Did Len write "amateur", hot-ham-and-cheese? Len is all about rank, title and status--when it is his rank, title or status.

wiseman, from what i've seen of the sorry spankard over the years, is incapbable of backing up anything he claims or says. he does have an excellent line in verbal diarrhoea though.

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

Hi Metro. I am a profoundly retarded gay male and I am very attracted to you. Nowadays it is so hard to meet attractive well endowed men that a decent, such as yourself. In gay or bicurious relationships I also function as the bottom-boy. This means that I am the one penetrated. In Bondage type scenarios, I am always the submissive.

I am a pre-op transexual. I am still trying to raise the funds to have my penis cut off and reshaped into a vagina.

I hope I haven't repulse you or even alarmed you. I am being a little bet forward because decent "real" men are hard to find. I can accommodate up to 14 inches of penis in my rectum with feeling pain.

If this is something that might interest you, please send me e-mail at <exebuyola@yanospamhoo.com>.

I have plenty of sex toys that could be used on me.

If you were repulsed, I apologize. I read some of your posts and you seem like a diamond in the rough. Thanks again, for your attention.

If you're not gay, I have to tell you that receiving blowjobs is not gay. A mouth is a mouth is a mouth is a mouth. Whether it's hairy or not. Whether it has lip stick or not.

If you are not a male, would you be opposed to putting a strap-on on and still work me over. Again if you are repulsed, I apologize.

Lustfully Yours,

++SameAsB4

i don't know how a lame little spankard like miss woger wiseman can i can remember him and another idiot called, i think it was, fecal entertaining in completely the wrong kind of way, like laughing at like i said. if you fuck with him you cannot get rid of him because he Gavie... It if is true please consider this:

Hi Gavie. I am a profoundly retarded gay male with severe hygiene issues and I am very attracted to you. Nowadays it is so hard to meet attractive well endowed men that are decent, such as yourself. In gay or bicurious relationships I also function as the bottom-boy. This means that I am the one penetrated. In Bondage type scenarios, I am always the submissive.

I am a pre-op transexual. I am still trying to raise the funds to have my penis cut off and reshaped into a vagina.

I hope I haven't repulse you or even alarmed you. I am being a little bit forward because decent "real" men are hard to find. I can accommodate up to 14 inches of penis in my rectum without feeling pain.

If this is something that might interest you, please send me e-mail at <exebuyola@yanospamhoo.com>.

I have plenty of sex toys that could be used on me.

If you were repulsed, I apologize. I read some of your posts and you seem like a diamond in the rough. Thanks again, for your attention.

I shall await with my mouth and my buttcheeks opened wide. Ready for you to come inside.

Lustfully Yours,

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them

up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

Will this be one of those things where, in several months, you'll state that I wrote the above? See Len's statement above about the transceivers manufactured. See if you can find where he says anything about "amateur use". Not all CW operation is done for hobby use.

I've never been one to limit myself to a niche, hot-ham-and-cheese. I operate contests; I chase DX, I enjoy a good ragchew; I handle traffic; I use 160 meters. I use 6 & 2m and 70cm. I use SSB, CW, AM, FM and several digital modes.

I'm comfortable with that.

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

Nah, that's outright forgery. You could net.KKKop him for it. Verizon and like ISPs take it seriously, too. Using a replyable address with the name of another poster, especially one identical to that of the actual poster, is a definite no-no.

Study the list in my sig closely -- it has lots of helpful hints.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K
Never learn from your mistakes.
Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.

Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)
The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).

Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth.
Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.

(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.
Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.
"They laughed at Einstein, too!"

The c*nt started forging first. Just like you did, SameAs$B4. I'm just showing the retarded b1tch and you how it's really done, SameAsB4. I bet the c*nt isn't even taking notes. I can netcop anyone right back. I'm sure you violated more than a few of Shaw Communications ISP service rules. If you want to netcop, WE CAN DO THIS!! I'm all for escalation of this flamewar that you've lost already. You started $hit with me and look at where it's landed ya. Using another nym because I your last one has been destroyed.

You do need to form alliances because I'm destroying ya quite handily, as$clown.

You've f*cked with the wrong person. I think you know that now. I bet your stoopid as$ thought it would be over and done with days ago. Silly tard!!

Oh, right. It's "destroyed". I'll never use "SameAsB4" ever again.
Anyway, if you want to net.KKKop me for my alleged forgery of your

Sure you are! You're destroying whole newsgroups with every other post, I'll bet. Usenet is being laid waste by the power of your flaming.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K
Never learn from your mistakes.

Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.
Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)

The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).
Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth.
Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle".

Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.
(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.

Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K

Never learn from your mistakes.
Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.
Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)

The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.

Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.
Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.

Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)
The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).
Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth. Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.

Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.
(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.

Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.
Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.
"They laughed at Einstein, too!"

No.

If Len were to obtain a license, set up an amateur station and get it on the air, he could change his "Inactive" status to "Slightly Active",
"Moderately Active" or "Very Active"

And a lot more things. For example, having someone he considers inferior correct some of his mistakes makes Len angry.

> Len has problems with authority, > seniority, titles, the Morse Code (and those who use it) and with mere

Also the inclusion of children in amateur radio, changes in real estate zoning initiated by those he considers outsiders, civilians daring to comment or even be knowledgeable about military history....the list goes on and on.

That's not status - that's title.

You have to read that post carefully. I don't think Len ever mentions that he was on the receiving end of an artillery barrage. He just mentions what allegedly happens to all sphincters in the area.

> He likewise clammed up when I > pointed out his denigration of a fellow military veteran (me),

Not just you. The sphincters post was aimed at a US Coast Guard radio operator, whose experience as a military Morse Code radio operator is both infinitely more extensive and far more recent than Len's.

There's also his denigration of your nonmilitary Government service.

> yet he is > quick to wrap himself in bunting, mount the soapbox and rail against any > perceived slight to himself as a military veteran.

Any disagreement to his statements is considered an insult by Len.

> Len is a riddle, > wrapped in an enigma and dipped in red, white and blue.

No, not a riddle or an enigma.

> I have him pegged as an angry old guy who happened to choose amateur > radio as his target.

Actually, rereading all of this makes me feel kinda sad for Len. Here's a guy who insists on telling us how wonderful his life is and has been (after all, he bought that R-70 receiver new for CASH) but seems very angry much of the time.

He says he's interested in "all of radio-electronics" as a "hobby", and has spammed ECFS with hundreds of pages of verbiage, but has never become a ham. (He says he comments for altruistic reasons.) Despite his efforts, FCC will soon eliminate the Morse Code test - yet Len's anger continues and even grows.

Tomorrow it will be seven years since the classic "out of the box" post.

Me thinks he doth protest too much.

A publication about amateur radio can be called "an amateur publication." See above.

He did not write amateurishly.

Well that's interesting because the moderators will either have to block me or block everyone else since I've disagreed with most people at one time or another on something. The cross postings from outside the amateur radio groups the last few days have really been annoying.

"things were going well " also would not get posted

IOW that the NEW NG supose to be able to replace RRAP could not contain the code wars at any point in the Code war which was the "moderators." In the majority they are those favoring morse mode above all other optional-use modes. Your "dissent" has been MINOR with those "expert amateurs." You, as an obvious morseperson, will not be blocked out.

It's been the style of the morsemen on this newsgroup to belittle, denigrate, enage in prissy little pedantic diatribes over words that do not fit in the code-tested amateur extra "expertise" opinions on What Is Good For [US] Amateur Radio.

To say that such "does not exist" is not only wrong but deliberately hypocritical...if not behaving in atypical ostrich syndrome of hiding heads in sand and refusing to acknowledge reality. Oh, the "moderators" will make all the statements of
"we treat everyone fairly" but such are simply political-group LIES (called "spin" in the vernacular). The "moderator" group will simply proceed as they have in the past...giving an overbalanced favoritsm to morsemanship with scant attention (other than lip service) to other optional modes.

After all, only the amateur extras Know What Is Good For (THEIR version of) Amateur Radio. Nothing will have changed except the newsgroup title.

> The cross postings from outside the amateur radio > groups the last few days have really been annoying.

That's an entirely DIFFERENT problem...one that Google just REFUSES to acknowledge or to correct. Live with it. Google refuses to fix the cross-posting problem that has existed for years.

Or, in typical ostrich-syndrome elitism, just block them all out. Then they won't exist. For you.

No, Mark, it's just that Miccolis is so wrapped up in his knowitall syndrome that he MUST supply "news" of FCC 06-178 AS IF he were "in favor of it." Hardly that...Miccolis said more than once that eliminating the code test is a BAD THING.

Tsk, tsk, he FAILED to supply such "news" for 18 Jan 07 ! ! !

[at least by 1:39 PM eastern time on 18 Jan 07]

Hmmm...let's see...the FCC themselves announced on 15 Dec 06 what it was going to do, assigned their number on the R&O, published it...and the ARRL dutifully made a link to that (as if only the ARRL "knew" or something).

Beats me why Miccolis isn't working up in Newington for the ARRL.

Come to think of it, that isn't unusual..."Scoop" Miccolis has always claimed "inside info" on just about anything. :-)

Miccolis is the EXPERT on the US military...despite NEVER having been IN any military service himself...or even IN any part of US government service. He goes the transgender route, putting on his Nun of the Above habit and tries to ruler-spank those of us who were IN US military service because we DARED speak against morse code testing! Now Jimmie once made a BIG thing about "not knowing a subject" such as the glory and majesty of morsemanship because some of us have never used it...but then he hypocritcally wanted to spank other veterans about their conduct towards morsemen veterans who wanted to keep code testing forever and ever. Miccolis isn't hard to understand, really, he KNOWS What Is Good For (HIS version of) Amateur Radio. He isn't hesitant to tell everyone who doesn't think like he does that they are "mistaken," or "plain and simply wrong." It's hard to reply to an ego that large.

I, maxGrrl the MaxWhore, had my daddy diddled me again today. I so enjoy being sodomized by my father. Today he tried to stick a german shepherd up my pus$y. The poor dog died before me could get it in there. The dog's death didn't stop me daddy from stuffing the carass up my pus$y. The dog melted in my death-trap $natch. I am MaxGrrl and I approved this message.

I will not Douche, ever!

In that case, can I have your dick, once it is chopped off? I want to use it as a pacifier, and a hood ornamant.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K
Never learn from your mistakes.
Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.
Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!

If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)
The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).
Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth. Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from

"legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.
(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...

There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.
Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.

I am a filthy c*nt named madMaxWhore. I am the type of girl that only gets taken to White Castles because guys give me a $2 or $3 dollor limit. If I want something more expensive, I have to go by the dumpster behind White Castles and open my legs for 5 cent deposit cans and then after I get sodomized and f8cked by the homeless population, I have to redeemed the bottles and cans to get the extra money. The homeless men love sticking the cans up my filthy vagina and watching them melt from the toxcitiy.

Sometimes the stores won't take my cans and bottle because of the thick discharge on them and the foul stench of the cans and bottle (because of my diseased discharge)

By the time I get back to the fast food joint my date is gone. I guess they met someone that will douche and won;t settle for a skanky whore like me.

I lose every flamewar I enter because the toxic fumes from my diseased undouched vagina impair my already damaged brain. I want to be owned by the best flamer I ever encountered in life refuses to own me because my vagina is so filthy and toxic. I get beat down by everyone on usenet. Even my provider Usenetserver.com beats me down.

I want to get married but I am a known whore whose only good for pumping and dumping. I am so embarrassed at being thoroughly thrashed by all of my Usenet enemies. For those that aren't so picky about douching, I am owned by 70% of the alt.usenet.kook population.

My daddy initiated me into the world of sex and I have been getting buttsexed by him regularly ever since I was five years old. I drip toxic discharge from my filthy vagina. I have vaginal hair longer than the hair on Crystal Gayle's head. Guys just pump me and then dump me. I'm the kind of girl that gets sexed in alley and behind dumpsters

That is correct. I am not a "neophyte" in radio.
I've been a professional in radio-electronics for 55 years, had a Commercial radio operator license since 1956, a PLMRS radio station, membership (now Life status) in a professional association, and have been both contributor and associate editor for an amateur radio periodical.

>If Len were to obtain a license, set up an amateur station and get it >on the air, he could change his "Inactive" status to "Slightly Active",

Miccolis is WRONG. All that a US amateur radio license grant to me would convey only the AUTHORIZATION to emit RF within allocated amateur radio bands. AUTHORIZATION from the federal government, not "qualification" nor any "inactive" or "active" labels. One either has authorization or no authorization.

>> > Yet the way he writes, he thinks he's better than everyone and >> > anyone in amateur radio.
>> That has long been evident.

Tsk...only to prissy little pedants like Miccolis and Heil trying to market their "expertise in amateurism" as some kind of royal title. :-)

>Amateur radio makes Leonard angry.

Miccolis is WRONG. But, to his mind, morse code and amteurism are all one and the same (another mistaken notion) and it makes HIM "angry" that his desires aren't obeyed. <shrug>

>The ARRL makes Len angry.

Miccolis is WRONG. The ARRL is very good at what it does. It has succeeded in making many, many amateurs think that a small group in New England Knows What Is Best For Amateur Radio. They play to the wish-fulfillment of radio hobbyists who want to more than just hobbyists. They have succeeded in becoming a virtual monopoly of published material for the specialty niche of US amateur radio. I admire them for their sheer chutzpah and ability to stay in BUSINESS as a multi-million-dollar-a-year (reported income) publishers.

I do NOT LIKE their approach of idolizing either archaic technology or the (self-defined by them)
"leaders" of US amateur radio. The ARRL is losing its "touch" and membership is slowly falling, not close to keeping up with the change in US population. The ARRL gives the impression that is shuns the Technician class licensee which now makes up half of ALL US amateur radio licensees.

Miccolis and Heil are both WRONG. By their common implication THEY are "better" than others...which just compounds their wrongness.

Yes, as a matter of fact. :-)

You got a problem with that, Jimmie NOserve?

Miccolis and Heil are both WRONG again. It was my LIFE EXPERIENCE is all. I voluntarily joined the United States ARMY in 1952 and lucked-out on my service assignment by being sent to the third largest Army network communications station in 1953.

Miccolis NEVER volunteered for any military service, was NOT drafted, never even served the US government in any official capacity. Yet Miccolis tries to imply that he is an "expert" on all things military. <shrug>

Heil volunteered for the USAF, quite possibly (like so many) trying to avoid the Draft and "served in a country at war." Heil says NOTHING in detail of his duties or involvement in radio in the USAF...probably because, truth be told (by other than himself), he was a REMF.

>You have to read that post carefully. I don't think Len ever mentions >that he was on the receiving end of an artillery barrage. He just mentions >what allegedly happens to all sphincters in the area.

That was as I was told by other soldiers who WERE in actual combat. Those whose words I could believe were true. But...the "critics" who dwell and dwell on their "sphincter knowledge" imply that they "KNOW" what the real truth is...WITHOUT having their own experience as a baseline. In other words, both Miccolis and Heil are truly bullshitting everyone with their "knowledge of battle." :-)

Jimmie NOserve, CITE YOUR MILITARY EXPERIENCE to say I was "wrong." You just don't have any such, do you?

>There's also his denigration of your nonmilitary Government service.

One is "supposed" to "always respect" the United States Department of State?!? <guffaw> Not for me since George C. Marshall retired. Maybe with Colin Powell but he saw what the bush league was doing and quit.

One is "supposed" to "always respect" a posting to a small African country consulate post, a country whose main export is cashew nuts?

One is "supposed" to "always respect" a State radio officer for "using CW to synchronize his RTTY skeds" in the 1980s? :-)

Jimmie NOserve, ANY military veteran "earned their chops" to talk to ANOTHER veteran. You are NO veteran of military service. You want to make nasty to someone by ruler-spanking their "behavior to another vet," you better EARN THE RIGHT to do that.

>Any disagreement to his statements is considered an insult by Len.

Tsk. Miccolis and Heil are both WRONG again.

But, both are of a mindset that THEY are somehow "superior" in all respects and that their amateur radio license (amateur extra, gained when 20 WPM testing was in effect) gives them "authorization" for behaving like "superior" beings. :-)

>Actually, rereading all of this makes me feel kinda sad for Len.

Poor baby. Got tissues?

>Here's a guy who insists on telling us how wonderful his life is and has been (after >all, he bought that R-70 receiver new for CASH) but seems very angry much >of the time.

Miccolis is once again WRONG. [is there no end to his mistakes?]

All in all, I've been fortunate in life. Not overly so but enough for me. I've made some money doing what I like, but no longer need to work to keep a nice lifestyle. My wife is my high school sweetheart (really, a fact known to our classmates after our 50th high school reunion in 2001). I began in radio communications at a large Army radio station and that experience led me to change majors to electronic engineering. No mortgage on our house down south, none on the northern house.

So, I could pay cash for an Icom radio two decades ago? No problem. I earned every penny of that cash.
Wife and I bought a 2005 Chevy Malibu MAXX cash (actually on a credit card!). I don't consider that as any kind of "superiority." We both worked for our money, earning all of it. The purchase via credit card was a lark, something we could do...so we did it! You really ought to make some insult hay out of that...wow, must be some moral deficit to you to actually spend money for anything! :-)

>He says he's interested in "all of radio-electronics" as a "hobby", >and has spammed ECFS with hundreds of pages of verbiage, but has never >become a ham.

Hello? Did you miss my "hundreds of postings" about my First 'Phone Commercial license obtained in 1956?
That was 50 years ago, Jimmie Noserve, AFTER I'd been three years active military service at Army station ADA. Of WHAT PURPOSE would there be in "getting a ham license before becoming professional?" Besides the fun of having that hobby?

Tsk, I guess having an amateur radio license is NOT fun...it is something all have to work for...harder than anything they've done in life? It's a "service to the country" that ham hobby?

Oh, If I'd become a butcher, I would certainly have gotten a ham license...which includes a beef license and a fish license and all other good stuff regulated by the FDA and LA Health Department. :-)

>(He says he comments for altruistic reasons.) Despite his >efforts, FCC will >soon eliminate the Morse Code test - yet Len's anger continues and even >grows.

Ho ho! Miccolis is once again WRONG! [no end for his mistakes in sight...] Not only WRONG but FULL OF SHIT. [take some Ex-Lax, Jimmie]

"Despite my efforts" the FCC announced FCC 06-178?!?

Wow, poor Jimmie got all tangled up in his thinking.

Hundreds and hundreds of US commented to the FCC about ENDING the code test for an amateur radio license. Really. It must have convinced the FCC.

It sure as hell didn't convince the pro-coders. :-)

Pro-coders can continue on their mistaken belief that they do a national service by having amateur radio as a hobby...or being "all" involved in emergency communications...and being some kind of forefront of "homeland security" by being able to pound brass. They are keeping the "tradition" of archaic radiotelegraphy as a living museum of old radio. I am sooooo impressed......[not]

"Anger?!" I don't think so [he said grinning from ear to ear]. Accuse me of GLOATING, not "anger."

All those years of hearing the pseudo-experts of radio with their amateur license extoll the glory and majesty of morsemanship and how "all must WORK (at morsemanship) to show their 'dedication' to ham radio!" Wow! All that going down the tubes!

Jimmie, it's time you invited your "friends and neighbors" over so they can "admire your work."
You obviously need some TLC after that hangover.
[from drinking all that whine of sour grapes]

Damn, but this GLOATING feels GOOD! :-)

Sigh...Heil is once more into his infamous Personality Diatribes...all because no one wants to honor, love, and respect his "Only

For (THEIR version of) Amateur Radio."

>> Did Len write "amateur", hot-ham-and-cheese?

That wasn't the only publication I've written for (and received monetary compensation), but he hasn't bothered to find out. In addition, I've received compensation from HR in EDITING material...which requires a lot of technical work other than wordsmithing for a technical periodical.

Editors and publishers of national printed periodicals in the USA have always been professional in their work...still are. It was never in the amateurish appearance of some Internet Blogs.

Quite true. But, Heil is a High-Rate-Code-Tested Amateur-Extra (and not hesitant to tell everyone about that...along with being a "Mr. Dx" in actually being DX).

What Heil must mean by "earned titles" is Miccolis' hateful little "profile" of me, done in Miccolis' spite when he wasn't loved, honored, and respected for his mighty macho morsemanship.

>>> Leonard has earned them.
>Len has earned no titles in amateur radio.

No amateur license, no amateur titles, no amateur rank, no amateur status.

But...Heil cannot understand that licensing in amateur radio does NOT make one "expert" on ANY radio subject. All that an amateur license conveys is the AUTHORIZATION to emit RF in certain amateur radio frequency bands.

Heil - like the other self-defined "radio experts" in here - misuses the word
'qualification' in trying to substitute it for the Federal AUTHORIZATION of the amateur radio license. He has frequently made that mistake...but his ego won't let him admit it.

>> I've often written that Leonard H. Anderson is not a participant >> in amateur radio.
>Quiteoften.

Oh, my, Heil is STILL trying to put that one over.
Tsk.

Unless there's been a federal government revolution in the last few seconds (that I'm not aware of), there is NO LICENSE REQUIRED to communicate with the US federal government about ANY federal law or regulation. None. Nada. Nyet. It is a guarantee of the US Constitution.

The on-going MAJOR subject in this newsgroup has been the morse code test regulation for an amateur radio license. Unless one spends the majority of their time in TAKING morse code tests, that regulation subject does NOT require "participation" either with or without amateur radio licensing.

Heil is trying to make some emotional baggage out of the "lack of an amateur radio license" but keeps failing to use the right material and he can't make his stitches proper. I've had a COMMERCIAL radio operator license since 1956 and that is still in effect. I've been a professional in radio-electronics for 55 years and have worked with more modes in communications and over a wider part of the EM spectrum than has ever been allocated to radio amateurs.

What Heil is really trying to do is denigrate and demean anyone who is/was against HIS views and opinions. So, without trying to be overt about his hate of those whom he thinks has "bested him" in this newsgroup, he manufactures faulty denigrations and general demeaning "charges" of impropriety.

That's not unusual. Miccolis has done the same. Both wanted to WIN for "their side." They LOST. When FCC 06-178 becomes legal, both will have LOST their rank-status-title thing in amateur radio as faithful followers of morsemanship. They both tried to use that in their self-defined description of themselves, implying that they were "better" than others. BFD.

That's simply not true, Len.

I'm simply reporting what's going on with the Report and Order wrt its publication in the Federal Register. Is that not allowed?

For once you got something right, Len! I do indeed think the elimination of the Morse Code test is a bad thing. But it's going to happen, 30 days after FCC gets around to publishing it in the Federal Register.

Well, Len, you've never been a radio amateur, but you claim to know all about amateur radio and what is best for it.

1616. MI5 Persecution: Dirk Gently on the Toronto Case (824)

Dirk was on the West Coast when he got the call. An old friend at the Toronto police department thought he would like to fly up and take a look at a homicide which had occurred the previous evening. He decided to skip the last day at the World Holistics conference and take the next plane out of San Francisco.

The flight was bad; Dirk had been hit on the back of the head by the Newspaper trolley, the drinks trolley, the dinner trolley and now the gift trolley. When the hostesses weren't trying to tear his arm off they pestered him to stop leaning into the aisle - ignoring the fact that the guy next to him was taking up one and a half seats. Air Canada used to be the flight which was so good you just didn't wanna get off - on this occasion Dirk would be glad to see the back of the plane and the over sized alternative comedian wedged into the window seat.

After breathing in a couple of lungfulls of crisp Canadian air Dirk took a taxi into town. There was a small group of demonstrators outside the MacDonalds and the taxi driver insisted on stopping on the opposite side of the street. "Don't Eat Meat" the placards read and the demonstrators chanted. A couple of policemen where stopping the crowd entering the restaurant itself - one held up his arm and challenged Dirk. A wave of the fax he had been sent and the policeman pushed open the door.

There were few customers in the restaurant. Not surprising really with a demonstration going on outside, half the dining area roped off with tape and a dead body seated at one of the tables. "Mr Gently sir" the officer in charge called out as he peeled one end of the tape off a column "We were told not to touch anything til" you got here".

The body of the man slumped awkwardly in a chair. Then even a dead body would start getting uncomfortable in a MacDonalds chair after twenty minutes - and this one had been there for at least eighteen hours. Two back legs and the tail of a cat hung out of the man's gaping mouth. Dirk turned to the officer, "I suppose you are going to tell me this is the darndest thing you ever saw?"

�Ain�t this the darnd...�. The officer seemed annoyed that Dirk had second guessed him. �We�re removing the body in a few minutes, so if you can get through as quick as possible�

�Many people eat cats in fast food restaurants?� Dirk asked and without waiting for an answer leant over the table to pick up an untouched burger. �And what�s this?� he asked waving it in front of the officers face.

�It�s a Vedgie Burger� The waitress, who was cleaning one of the adjacent tables, shouted across. She walked over to Dirk. �We started doing them because of that lot out there� she nodded towards the protesters who were pressing there faces against the windows �They�re called Linda McCartney Vedgie burgers - ever heard of them?�

Dirk suddenly felt faint, perhaps a combination of hunger and jet lag. �This is deja vu all over again� he thought to himself. He glanced at policemen - at the badge on his shoulder �OPD� but this wasn�t Ontario this was Toronto. OPD - Officially Pronounced Dead. It dawned on Dirk what was happening, he knew what he would see if he looked out of the window. Sure enough, there it was, the Volkswagen Beetle parked across the road - number plate 28IF - 28 IF Paul McCartney had lived. And amongst the lyrics of the song blaring out into the restaurant he could pick out the words �I buried Paul�. Now it was though Dirk was viewing the whole scene though a TV screen. This was conspiracy. Not -a- conspiracy, or -the- conspiracy, but just plain conspiracy.

�You look faint - are you OK mister? The waitress asked.

Dirk shook his head �Probably a bit hungry� Then to economise on dialogue took out a pack of cigarettes and held it out towards the girl. She was about to take one but Dirk snatched the pack away, held it up to his mouth and drew out two cigarettes. He lit both then passed one of them to the girl. It was the closest he had come to a sexual encounter in three months.

�Want a Burger?� the waitress asked.

Dirk looked down at the Vedgie Burger on the table. �No thanks - just a plate of fries�

The waitress walked away and Dirk looked around the room. Apart from a family seated in the far corner there was only one other person in the restaurant - and he wasn�t eating. The guy was about mid twenties and had straggling, shoulder length hair. On the table in front of him were lots of pieces of paper cut into squares. Every so often he would pick up a camcorder and pan it around the room and then, when he was finished, speak into a microphone which was attached to a tape recorder. Dirk walked over to where the man was sitting.

The small pieces of paper had paragraphs of text written on them and were stuck to the top of table with blobs of mustard. Lines had been drawn, some solid some dotted, on the table top with a marker pen. The lines ran from one piece of paper to another.

“You see” The man replied nervously “The dotted lines are weak links and the solid lines are strong links. The dotted lines are things which are happening in the rest of the world and the solid lines are things which are happening to me. Now you see I draw over a dotted line, replacing it with a solid line, when I can link something back to me. Like this” The pen squeaked over the Formica and before Dirk could interrupt the man added. “You see I lost my short term memory and, as a consequence have a very short attention span. I write down, record and film everything then put it all together later”

“So” Dirk interrupted. “You filmed what happened here?”

“Yes, yes, it’s here on this tape” The man pushed the cassette across the table. On the label the words “Grassy Knoll” had been crossed through and replaced with “MacDonalds”.

Suddenly the man sprung from his seat. Dirk turned and saw that the body was being removed on a stretcher. As it passed the man picked a small object off the edge of the stretcher itself. “This is important” he said, laying a blood stained bullet on one of the small pieces of paper on the table.

Suddenly the room was filled with a deafening throbbing sound as a Black Helicopter landed in the street outside. Two men in United Nations uniforms got out and collected the stretcher. Back at the table the long haired man was replacing all the dotted lines with solid ones. Dirk panicked and began to walk backwards at some speed. Barging through the swing doors he stumbled into the kitchen, tripped and felt himself sink slowly into a large vat.

“The guys fallen into the batter” Dick heard someone shout before he sunk below the surface. He came to sitting in a chair with the batter solidifying all over his body. He surveyed the room through two eye-holes someone had cut. Suddenly the chair on which he was sitting was picked up carried through the restaurant and out of the building. As the chair was being lifted and put into the back of a van, Dirk caught a glimpse of the waitress following him. “Your fries mister, your plate o...�.

The doors of the van shut and Dirk tried desperately to steady himself as it sped across town. Eventually the doors flew open and Dirk was flung into the road at which point the solidified batter shattered and set him free. Standing up he found himself outside the international departures terminal of Toronto airport.

In the departure lounge Dirk had time to reflect on the day�s events. He had got caught up in the conspiracy theories and the haphazard welding together of pieces of irrelevant information. It was time to catch the person who was operating the bizarre cognitive engine which appeared in front of him like a fairground mirror, distorting any flaw it could find in his own, fragile, map of the real world.

Dirk leant into the aisle of the plane as it took off for London. The oversized person next to him swung his arms violently as he complained about every thing from the supper in a plastic tray to the state of British politics. With a shaven head and a badly fitting suit the man looked as though he could have worked behind the reception desk of the Kremlin. However when he spoke he did so in a Liverpudlian accent. �Me I blame the Con-serv-a-tive government, me. The Tour-rees. That-cher. Me. They need a good kicking� He jerked his feet forward and struck the seat in front with his Doc Martins. �With these. Me Doc Martins. Doctor Martin�s, Doctor Martin�s, Doctor Martin�s Booots!� The phrase was now being sung over and over again as the man writhed in his seat and clicked his fingers.

Dirk looked down at the boots and thought of the reaction most people used to deal with the paranoids at the end of the wire. A nice quick kick. �Oi nutter - get some therapy�. This is the easy way out and perhaps the safest. After all there you are sat, alone, in front of the screen. No body language between you some paranoid. No way of telling if he really is some gibbering psycho. Look at it too long and you be drawn in. Fall into the tangled database of weird links with him. Who knows he may be watching you, reassembling and linking your experiences with his. How sure are you of you own cognitive threads. After all cognition is only a bug fix for a neurological system which was designed in a hurry - it�s abused by everyone from politicians to advertisers. If people really can convince each other that a bottle of washing up liquid is as exciting as an orgasm using just television God knows what they can do with a computer. Better to avoid the risk. A swift kick. After all if you�re Homophobic you put the boot in because you are scared of any ambiguity in your own sexuality

- why not be Nutterphobic as well.

Although Dirk would have liked to devoted time to tracking the culprit down he decided to let it rest. The Internet changed over the next twenty odd years. A lot of the people who used it went out and got lives. And those who already had lives burnt them away. The number of users had dwindled after someone had invented a C++ program, with truth as a variable, to deal handle politics and government. Dirk had already retired from finding old ladies cats with the help of obscure science when he got another call from Toronto.

It was 4th March 2025 when he booked onto the Air Canada flight from Heathrow. The silver haired woman in the seat next to him painted bright red lipstick around her mouth. ‘Of course it was no surprise to be offered the job after Claire Raynor retired’ she sneered’ After all I used to be a psychiatric nurse... Now if Blokes had periods they would understand...’

By chance the taxi ride to Toronto mental hospital took him past the MacDonalds - where the whole thing had started. Of course it was barely recognisable having become a Church Of Scientology Vedgie Bar. Police in riot gear kept the two sets of demonstrators apart. Dirk didn’t really know what to expect when he got to the hospital. The girl at the reception desk directed him to a row of chairs in a wide well lit corridor. There was a strong smell of disinfectant, the furniture and the carpets were immaculately clean and behind the rows of teak veneer doors the ‘nutters’ were all safely locked away. For some reason Dirk started thinking about CompuServe forums.

A tall blond woman in a white coat approached. ‘Mr Gentle, I assume’

‘Yes’ Dirk replied shaking her by the hand. ‘You’re the nurse who...’

‘Doctor’ She interrupted, ‘Doctor Killfile’ She led Dirk across the corridor towards one of the doors then stopped with her hand resting on the handle. ‘Now you know about this person don’t you?’ and after Dirk nodded she continued ‘Don’t tell him anything about yourself - don’t let him get into you head. If he does he’ll screw it up’

The door opened to reveal a frail man sitting in from of a TV screen. He had a keyboard on his lap and next to the television was a computer screen. Dirk glanced at the walls of the room and remembered that his settee at home need upholstering. The nurse left the room and the man looked up ‘So you come to my daughters wedding and ask me to kill a man’ he said in a dry cackling voice. &#65533;Look&#65533; he continued, pointing at the screen, &#65533;I know that man. They&#65533;re talking about me now - listen&#65533;. The man stared at Dirk. &#65533;What&#65533;s your name? Are you one of my friends from the Internet? - Are the lambs still screaming Dirk?&#65533;

Dirk, at first recoiled in horror, then felt a sense of anti climax. So this is what they hyped up to superstar status on the back of their own fears of madness. Dirk was reminded of the film &#65533;A day on The Beach&#65533; where a submarine had set off to search a post nuclear World to track down a signal coming from a remote military base - only to find it was being sent by a Coke bottle half balanced on a Morse tapper. Outside the room the nurse waited for him. Because his nicotine craving had returned - and to avoid an awkward piece of dialogue - Dirk turned to her and asked . &#65533;Patch?&#65533;

Dirk took two nicotine patches from his wallet the first of which he stuck onto the inside of his arm. Stepping closer to Doctor Killfile he opened her white coat and slid his hand into the opening at the front of her dress. He pressed the patch onto her leg as close to the top of her inner thigh as he dare. She took a deep breath and then slowly breathed out. &#65533;What Bogart could have done with these things&#65533; Dirk thought to himself.

&#65533;Is he crazy?&#65533; Dirk asked tilting his head back to towards the door.

&#65533;Who knows&#65533; Doctor Killfile replied &#65533;We let him type away. He sees something on the TV in the morning and it keeps him busy all day. What he types doesn&#65533;t go anywhere it just stays on a mainframe in the basement. It can be read by anyone else in the building but that&#65533;s it. We got them all in here conspiracy theorists, racists, nationalists. They&#65533;ve created a world within a world really...&#65533; Her voice trailed away and she stared down the corridor for a while then added &#65533;So long are two things are different neither will come to be in the other and so become at once both one and two.&#65533;

Dirk gave her a puzzled look &#65533;You mean their brains are fried?&#65533;

&#65533;Fried?&#65533; Killfile smiled at Dirk &#65533;No that was Plato&#65533;. Then the smile fell from her face. &#65533;You must remember, mister, plate o...&#65533;

Have you seen the "Col Jessup" remark? Heil says "casual CW operation" and I asked if there were any other kind.

He just might be the first software designed amateur... notice his frequent punctuation outside the quotation marks.

I almost "get it" at this point. Could he say it just one more time so

Welp, we've got some folks in amateur radio "exploring" spark transmissions.

Jim? Him, too.

Next, we will work on the "One Amateur Radio, One Amateur Radio License" theme. They're gonna hate it si it's imperative that the group go moderated...

They almost got it right... They're no better than everyone else.

Welp, I think I'm going to try to get into the new group and beat the drum of "One Amateur Radio, One Amateur Radio License." Jim had his heart set on "more license classes" when we had five of them. I'm going to see what I can do about making it one license class, or at worst, one full class, and one learners class.

Welp, when we get to one amateur license for the ARS, we can measure the ham by what he/she does, not by some false title "earned" by how fast they can emulate a modem.

Like the time he flauted the necessity of having an amateur license at all and set up his own spark gap transmitter - then blamed it on the Scouts!

WE WILL PAY SIMPLE INTEREST AT THE ANNUAL RATE DETERMINED BY THE STATE LAW WHERE YOU RECEIVE THE SERVICES. IF YOU FAIL TO PAY FOR THE SERVICES WHEN DUE, WE MAY USE THE DEPOSIT WITHOUT GIVING NOTICE TO YOU.

5. CREDIT LIMITS. IF WE BILL YOU FOR THE SERVICES, WE MAY SET A CREDIT LIMIT BASED ON YOUR PAYMENT HISTORY OR YOUR CREDIT SCORE FROM CONSUMER CREDIT REPORTING AGENCIES. YOU AGREE THAT, IF YOU DO NOT NOTIFY US OF A DISPUTE WITHIN FOURTEEN (14) DAYS OF RECEIPT OF THE INVOICE, YOU HAVE WAIVED ALL RIGHTS TO DISPUTE THAT INVOICE. YOU FURTHER AGREE TO PAY ANY SALES, GROSS RECEIPTS, USE, EXCISE, ACCESS OR OTHER LOCAL, STATE OR FEDERAL TAXES AND CHARGES IN CONNECTION WITH THE PROVISION, SALE OR USE OF THE SERVICES (EXCEPT FOR TAXES MEASURED ON OUR GROSS INCOME). YOU AGREE TO PAY INTEREST ON ANY AMOUNTS NOT PAID WHEN DUE, AT THE RATE OF 1.5% PER MONTH UNTIL SUCH AMOUNT IS PAID IN FULL. YOU AGREE THAT YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL CHARGES FOR USE OF SERVICES AND FOR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER OR NOT SUCH USE WAS AUTHORIZED BY YOU. UPON CANCELLATION OR TERMINATION OF ANY SERVICE, YOU AGREE TO PROMPTLY RETURN TO US ANY RELATED EQUIPMENT LOCATED ON YOUR PREMISES (OTHER THAN EQUIPMENT YOU BOUGHT FROM US AND PAID FOR IN FULL) IN ITS ORIGINAL CONDITION AND WORKING ORDER, EXCEPT FOR NORMAL WEAR AND TEAR. IF WE HAVE TO RETRIEVE EQUIPMENT FROM YOU, YOU WILL PAY A $9.95 PICKUP FEE. THESE LIMITS DO NOT APPLY TO DAMAGES FOR DEATH OR BODILY INJURY.

9. NO RESALE AND FIXED LOCATION USE. SERVICES AND EQUIPMENT ARE FOR YOUR EXCLUSIVE PERSONAL USE ONLY AND YOU WILL NOT SHARE, RESELL OR ASSIGN THE SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT (OTHER THAN EQUIPMENT YOU BOUGHT FROM US), NOR ALLOW ANY THIRD PARTY TO USE THE SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT, WITHOUT OUR PRIOR WRITTEN CONSENT. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT THE SERVICES ARE FIXED-LOCATION SERVICES AND MAY NOT BE MOVED TO, OR USED FROM, ANY LOCATION OTHER THAN THE LOCATION TO WHICH THE SERVICES ARE FIRST PROVIDED, WITHOUT PAYMENT OF NEW CONNECTION FEES AND ANY APPLICABLE EARLY CANCELLATION CHARGE, IF APPLICABLE. IF YOU CHANGE RESIDENCES, YOU SHALL PROMPTLY NOTIFY US.

And a while back you were to have us believe that ragchewing was not something that a DXer engaged in, or that an IOTA contest would not bring out any new DX contacts. Now you're mister generalist...

Your punctuation syntax is incorrect. Does that make you "Dumbest," or just incapable of leadership?

I wouldn't have it any other way.

And you've run that brag tape here many, many, many times.

How? Look at the various choices for "status" - they describe the level of activity in amateur radio. You are currently Inactive.

Actually if would grant more than that.

You have neither authorization nor qualification as a radio amateur, Len.
So your status in amateur radio is "Inactive".

It's evident in most of your postings here, Len.

You're quoting K8MN, Len.

"amteurism"? Did you mean "aneurysm", Len?

The fact is that you're the one who is angry, not me.
You fly off the handle for all sorts of reasons. I don't.

And that makes you very angry, Len.

Actually, that's not true at all.

The policies of the ARRL are decided by the Board of Directors, who are from all over the USA, not just New England.

"who want to more than just hobbyists."

What the heck does that mean?

Really?

I guess the folks at CQ, Worldradio, Electric Radio, AWA and bunch of other publishers don't count with you, Len.

Sounds like you're jealous, Len.

Ever been to Newington? I have. Got a tour and operated W1AW.
In fact I brought my favorite radiotelegraph key with me and used it there.

Great place, great folks.

If you get a license, and went there, they'd let you operate W1AW, too.

What "idolizing of archaic technology", Len? Have you actually read any of their current publications?

Really? How about in comparison with the US amateur population?

I guess you haven't read any current ARRL publications, then, because that's simply not the case.

Your behavior here tells a very different story, Len.

Your behavior here shows how easily you are angered by those you consider to be your inferiors - which is almost everyone.

What implication, Len?

Your anger is your problem, Len. Your display of it here just makes you look immature.

Were all volunteers trying to avoid the draft, Len?

Or could it be that someone who volunteers for the US Air Force, Coast Guard, Navy or Marines wanted to serve our country, or learn a skill, or get some "life experience"?

> says NOTHING in detail of his duties or

Len, one thing I have noticed about military veterans is that many of them don't mention their military experiences at every possible opportunity. I'm no expert, but I have found that many of those who were in actual combat don't talk about it easily or lightly.

There is no obligation for any military veteran to tell you of their military experiences, Len. Particularly considering how you react to them.

I've never claimed any such knowledge, Len.

I'm not the one describing what it's like to be on the receiving end of an artillery barrage, Len. You are.

In fact, you made that classic "sphincters post" in a response to a United States Coast Guard radio operator who related his actual experiences at a USCG radio station. As if your non-experience trumped his actual experience.

Strange behavior on your part, Len.

It's irrelevant, Len.

If I earn and spend more money per year than you do, Len, does that make me a better person than you?

Does it make my opinions on amateur radio policy more valid?

I think it would be an excellent subject for debate.

To me, it seems that two classes would be appropriate: General and Extra.
I think this will actually become the de facto structure as we move forward anyway and have mentioned this before.

It is not unreasonable for the prospective ham to study both the Technician and General material and take both writtens at the same time. This is actually what I will be suggesting to those that I help prepare for the licensing tests. While there is some material that is unique to each specific test, there is enough overlap that it would be reasonable for a candidate to prepare for going straight to General. In time, I think it would be reasonable to make the Technician a closed license class and merge the question pools just as they did when they closed the Advanced class and merged the question pools for Advanced and Extra back in 2000.

Persecuted by the Security Service

Since June 1990 the British security service MI5 has waged a campaign of harassment against a UK citizen, through the broadcast and print media, verbal abuse at work, and molestation in public and during travel.

Despite widespread knowledge of the campaign in the UK and discussion of its characteristics on Usenet for over three years, it continues today both in Britain and North America. Its cause and basis is xenophobia on the basis of the genetic accident of mental illness, coupled with discrimination against an inferior "foreigner" whom they condemn as "not up to British Standards".

If this is your first visit to this site, please read the FAQ first. Feel free to contact the author with any questions.

Frequently Asked Questions article outlines the parameters of the persecution. Who is involved, and why?
What technical and social means do they employ? What response have I made, and why has their campaign yet to be exposed?

The UK Security Services which are believed to be behind it all. Domestic security is the province of MI5 while the secret intelligence service MI6 combats foes (and its former employees) on foreign shores.

Usenet archive chronicling the (sometimes very enthusiastic) exchanges which have taken place on UK-local newsgroups since May 1995. Make your mark on the continuing discussion!

Believe it or not, a few items of evidence have been recorded. Although none of them is particularly conclusive, by presenting them I hope to explain what I understand from some television and radio programmes.
Most of the "clinching" material was aired in 1990-92, and no recordings exist now, which is quite unfortunate.

My complaints to the BBC and MI5 (via the Security Service Tribunal and Interception of Communications Tribunal), and their response to my challenges, are recorded here. Basically they deny everything, they have put their denials (mostly - Buerk and Lewis refused) in writing, and I don't believe them. Part of the website also documents media coverage of my campaign to expose the persecution.

Faxed articles to, and responses from British organisations including Parliament and UK media. Over 24,259 faxes in all were sent from 1998 to 2000. Their aim was to boot discussion of the persecution into the public domain, and that aim was not accomplished.

I like sucking horse d1ck and flinging my Toxic discharge. My hole is so danagerous that it called terroristic. Yep me and my hole are on the "No Fly" list. HomeLand Security asked us (me and my diseased family) to leave the country.

My Pus$y is so STANK that not even Al Queda will mess with it! I will crush caves in Afganistan with my pelvic muscles. There is no tw@t more filthy than mine and you should be flogged for saying so.

My pus$y can cause damage of biblical proportions. Don't mess with UnDouchedWoman. I am one bad b1tch! My crotch is hairer than BigFoot and Sasquatch combined! Cousin It looks at my sn@tch and sez "Damn Shave, B1tch".

I am a filthy c*nt named madMaxWhore. I am the type of girl that only gets taken to White Castles because guys give me a $2 or $3 dollor limit. If I want something more expensive, I have to go by the dumpster behind White Castles and open my legs for 5 cent deposit cans and then after I get sodomized and f8cked by the homeless population, I have to redeemed the bottles and cans to get the extra money. The homeless men love sticking the cans up my filthy vagina and watching them melt from the toxcitiy.

Sometimes the stores won't take my cans and bottle because of the thick discharge on them and the foul stench of the cans and bottle (because of my diseased discharge)

By the time I get back to the fast food joint my date is gone. I guess they met someone that will douche and won;t settle for a skanky whore like me.

I lose every flamewar I enter because the toxic fumes from my diseased undouched vagina impair my already damaged brain. I want to be owned by the best flamer I ever encountered in life refuses to own me because my vagina is so filthy and toxic. I get beat down by everyone on usenet. Even my provider Usenetserver.com beats me down.

I want to get married but I am a known whore whose only good for pumping and dumping. I am so embarrassed at being thoroughly thrashed by all of my Usenet enemies. For those that aren't so picky about douching, I am owned by 70% of the alt.usenet.kook population.

My daddy initiated me into the world of sex and I have been getting buttsexed by him regularly ever since I was five years old. I drip toxic discharge from my filthy vagina. I have vaginal hair longer than the hair on Crystal Gayle's head. Guys just pump me and then dump me. I'm the kind of girl that gets sexed in alley and behind dumpsters

20,000 Reward Offered to Expose the Conspiracy

I am making a pledge for information directly leading to the exposing of the "BBC Newscaster Conspiracy". The exposing would specifically need to lead to a legally binding admission from Martyn Lewis or Michael Buerk of the BBC they they were watching me through the TV set.

I would be happy (delighted, in fact) to pay GBP 20,000 sterling in reward for the above admission.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K
Never learn from your mistakes.
Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.

Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.
Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)
The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).

Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth.
Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.

(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.
Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.

THE TRUTH!!" Then the MPs come and drag him out of court under arrest...

Tsk, Heil can be one VERY stubborn dumshit, and still doesn't understand why so many call him a prick.

Well, I expect the federales will come knocking on my some PCTA. Yawn...

I know...saw it. Wow, real PROGRESSIVE state of the art stuff! Next thing ya know they will be putting on the old WW One uniforms and recreating it. I think Jimmie NOserve put in for his commission in that...

True enough, but I don't think they can help themselves.

Both of 'em got hard ones every time they encounter a NCTA who dares stand up to their Majesties. :-)

I just wish Jimmie NOserve would get some help for his act of his.

Well, that IS a good subject but I don't think you will make much headway. Look at the "moderator" list. They appear to be all EXTRAS. What EXTRA would want to give up that wonderful Title? :-)

True enough. But, they just won't accept that... :-(

Maybe its due to the ARRL? They've always thought they RUN US amateur radio. They don't but maybe their law firm filed something to delay the whole thing? :-)

Could even be that sour grapes sipper at "World Radio!" Just saw that and couldn't believe what he wrote...so LATE in the

Yup. It's on-topic and it's something everyone can argue over.

There is gross overlap, as the General is the parent of the Tech. Tech used to be the consolation prize for people failing the 13WPM morse code exam. And the General is not an introductory license - it once conveyed 100% of all amateur privileges.

Hopefully, we'll be able to convince each other as we did the morse exam debate.

Dee, it's no worse than Robesin's "excrement eating" posting, but no one seems to mind that.

Robesin is a code-tested amateur extra. Those title-holders can do anything they want anywhere...according to them. Ahem...look at the list of "moderators" and the Titles they hold. QED.

Michael Savage was saying something about "The Progressive Farmer" tonight, in reference to it's sister publication, "Time" magazine.
Anyway, I missed what it was.

The local station dumped "Air America" and plugged in Savage Nation.
Go figure. Welp, we've still got Air NPR.

For my sins I had a look and it's quite good actually. Nicely set out and presented. Didn't read it though, having read the rants a million times before. By the way, anyone noticed Chris Tarrant looking at you funny during Man O Man yet? Thought not...

My html thingy doesnt seem to do frames so all I got was a blank page. Then

BTW does 'troll' bring to mind a fishing lure (ie you are American), or an

Now, whatever you might think about the content, this is a very well designed and presented web page (if you use Netscape to look at it anyway - Mosaic couldn't handle it).

This is my article, not my employer's, with my opinions and my disclaimer!

I'm sure it will be just as effective. I still believe that the basic morse test should have been kept but it's water under the bridge.

Funny, I didn't read a damn thing in there about abuse . . . however, a quick search DID reveal this:

http://www2.verizon.net/policies/acceptable_use.asp

ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY
1. This is Verizon's policy on the acceptable use of the Service. It is designed to help protect the Service, Verizon's customers and the Internet community, from irresponsible or illegal activities.

2. Verizon reserves the right to deny Service to you, or immediately to terminate your Service for material breach, if your use of the Service or your use of an alias or the aliases of additional users on your account, whether explicitly or implicitly, and in the sole discretion of Verizon: (a) is obscene, indecent, pornographic, sadistic, cruel or racist in nature, or of a sexually explicit or graphic nature; (b) espouses, promotes or incites bigotry, hatred or racism; (c) might be legally actionable for any reason, (d) is objectionable for any reason, or (e) in any manner violates the terms of this Acceptable Use Policy.

3. You may NOT use the Service as follows: (a) for any unlawful, improper or illegal purpose or activity; (b) to post or transmit information or communications that, whether explicitly stated, implied, or suggested through use of symbols, are _obscene, indecent, pornographic, sadistic, cruel, or racist in content, or of a sexually explicit or graphic nature_; or which espouses, promotes or incites bigotry, hatred or racism; or which might be legally actionable for any reason; (c) to access or attempt to access the accounts of others, to spoof or attempt to spoof the URL or DNS or IP addresses of Verizon or any other entity, or to attempt to penetrate or penetrate security measures of Verizon or other entities' systems ("hacking") whether or not the intrusion results in corruption or loss of data; (d) to bombard individuals or newsgroups or community message boards with uninvited communications, data or information, or other similar activities, including _but not limited to "spamming", "flaming"_ or denial or distributed denial of service attacks; (e) to transmit unsolicited voluminous emails (for example, spamming) or to intercept, interfere with or redirect email intended for third parties using the Service; (f) to introduce viruses, worms, harmful code and/or Trojan horses on the Internet; (g) to post information on newsgroups or community message boards which is not in the topic area or charter (e.g. off-topic posting) of the newsgroup or community message board; (h) to interfere with another person's usage or enjoyment of the Internet or this Service; (i) _to post or transmit information or communications that are defamatory, fraudulent, obscene_ or deceptive, including but not limited to scams such as "make-money-fast" schemes or "pyramid/chain" letters; (j) to damage the name or reputation of Verizon, its parent, affiliates and subsidiaries, or any third parties; (k) to transmit confidential or proprietary information, except solely at your own risk; (l) to violate Verizon's or any third party's copyright, trademark, proprietary or other intellectual property rights, including trade secret rights; (m) to use more than one IP address obtained from Verizon; (n) to generate excessive amounts (as determined by Verizon in its sole discretion) of Internet traffic, or to disrupt net user groups or email use by others; (o) to engage in activities designed to or having the effect of degrading or denying Service to Verizon users or others (including activities that compromise a server, router, circuit, software or other Internet component; (p) to use any name or mark of Verizon, its parent, affiliates or subsidiaries, as a hypertext link to any Web site or in any advertising publicity or other commercial manner; (q) to use the Service to operate a server in a manner that interferes with the network or other users' use of the Service; (r) to use the Service or the Internet in a manner intended to threaten, harass, or intimidate; (s) to cause the screen to "scroll" faster than other subscribers or users are able to type to it, or any action that has a similar disruptive effect, on or through the Service; (t) to use the Service to disrupt the normal flow of online dialogue, (u) to use the Service to violate any operating rule, policy or guideline of any other online services provider or interactive service; (v) to attempt to subvert or to aid third parties to subvert, the security of any computer facility or system connected to the Internet; (w) to impersonate any Verizon employee or official or other person or use a false name while using the Service or implying an association with Verizon; (x) to install "auto-responders," "cancel-bots" or similar automated or manual routines which generate excessive amounts of net traffic, or disrupt net user groups or email use by others; (y) to make false or unverified complaints against any Verizon subscriber, or otherwise abusing any of Verizon's complaint response procedures; (z) to use software or any other device that would allow your account to stay logged on while you are not actively using the Service, unless you are a Broadband customer; (aa) to export software or any information in violation of US export laws; (bb) to use the Service in contravention of the limitations of the pricing plan you have chosen; (cc) for Broadband customers who use static IP address, to use an IP address other than the one assigned by Verizon; (dd) for customer who have been assigned a dynamic IP address to use such IP address to circumvent the changing of IP addresses assigned by the Service or (ee) to open connections to more than one Verizon Usenet news service at a time.

Usenet Policy and Posting Restrictions: Usenet comprises a system of bulletin boards called newsgroups. Usenet access is provided to Internet access customers of Verizon through the Verizon network. Verizon Usenet may not be accessed via any other network. You may open no more than five simultaneous connections to newsgroups at any one time. You may not rapidly open and close or create connections for users other than yourself (our Subscriber). Verizon will carry newsgroups at their sole discretion. Requests to add a newsgroup, from any source, will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis, and added at Verizon sole discretion. You must familiarize yourself with the subjects and established guidelines and restrictions of any newsgroup in which you participate and we reserve the right, in our sole discretion to terminate your Service in the event you violate newsgroup guidelines or restrictions.

APPROPRIATE USE POLICY (AUP)
Copyright 1999 Knology Inc.
ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

Our Appropriate Use Policy (AUP) is designed to help protect our customers, and the Internet community from irresponsible or illegal activities. As good net citizens, we prohibit the impersonation of others, unsolicited commercial appeals, and any disruption of Internet services.

Knology Inc. may revise this Acceptable Use Policy without notice at any time by posting a new version of this document on our corporate web site at http://www.knology.com/legal/aup. As a result users should check this document frequently to ensure they are in compliance with most recent version. In the event there is a conflict between any subscriber agreement and this policy, the terms of this policy will govern.

The Appropriate Use Policy governs all services provided by Knology Inc. and its partners provided for customer use. The Services shall be defined as residential dedicated cable modem Internet access, email, and web storage space and newsgroup services.

Section 1. Violations and Descriptions of Appropriate Use

* General Violations
* Inappropriate Content
* E-mail
* Web Space
* Newsgroups
* Internet Relay Chat (IRC)
* Financial
* Excessive bandwidth or disk utilization
* Line of service demarcation

General Violations of the Acceptable Use Policy

Impersonation/Forgery: Adding, removing, or modifying identifying network header information (a.k.a. "spoofing") in an effort to deceive or mislead is prohibited. Attempting to impersonate any person by using forged headers or other identifying information is especially frowned upon. Please note the use of anonymous re-mailers and nicknames does not constitute impersonation.

Network unfriendly activity: Any activities which adversely affect the ability of other people or systems to use Knology services or the Internet is prohibited. This includes "denial of service" (DOS) attacks against another network host or individual user.

Privacy violations: Attempts, whether successful or unsuccessful, to gain access to any computer system or customer's data, without consent, are prohibited.

Threats: Threats of bodily harm or destruction of property are always prohibited.

Inappropriate Content

There is content on the Internet or otherwise available through the Services, which some may find offensive or disturbing. It is possible to obtain access to content, which is pornographic or offensive. Neither Knology Inc. nor any of its content distributors can assume any responsibility for the content contained on the Internet or otherwise available through the Service. You must assume the risk of accessing content through the Services, and neither Knology Inc. nor any its distribution affiliates shall have any liability for any claims, losses, damages, suits or proceedings arising out of or otherwise related to access to such content.

You are solely responsible for any information, which you publish on the web or other Internet Services. You must ensure that the receipt of the content is appropriate. You must take appropriate precautions to prevent minors from viewing inappropriate content. Knology Inc. reserves the right to refuse to post or to remove and information or materials, in whole or in part, that it, in its sole discretion, deems to be offensive, indecent, or otherwise inappropriate regardless of whether such material is unlawful.

Knology Inc. has no obligation to monitor transmissions made on the Services. Knology Inc. does however, have the right to monitor transmissions at any time.

E-mail

Commercial e-mail: Sending unsolicited commercial email is prohibited. Using a Knology e-mail or website address to collect responses from unsolicited commercial e-mail is prohibited. This includes but is not limited to, bulk mailing of commercial advertising, informational announcements, charity requests, petitions for signatures and political or religious messages. Such messages may only be sent to those who have explicitly requested them.

The Services may not be used to collect email from unsolicited email sent from accounts on other Internet resources or email services which violates this policy or the acceptable use policy of any other Internet Service Provider. In addition, unsolicited email may not direct the recipient to any web site or other resource, which uses the Services.

Mail Bombing: Sending large volumes of unsolicited e-mail is prohibited. The propagation of chain letters is similarly prohibited, whether or not the recipient wishes to receive such mailings.

Harassment: Sending threatening or harassing email is prohibited. If after being requested to stop, a Knology user persists in emailing another Internet user, Knology may intervene. Extremely threatening or harassing e-mail is always prohibited.

Knology Inc. is not responsible for the forwarding of email sent to any account, which has been suspended or terminated. Such mail will be returned to sender, ignored, or deleted at Knology Inc. sole discretion.

Web Space

As part of the Services, Knology Inc. provides storage space and access for web pages through its personal web hosting services. You are solely responsible for any information you publish within this personal storage space. All content published within this space must honor all aspects of the inappropriate content clause of this Acceptable Use Policy.

Newsgroups

Messages posted to newsgroups must comply with the written charters of FAQ's for those newsgroups. Advertisements, solicitations, or other commercial messages should be posted only in those newsgroups whose characters of FAQ's explicitly permit them. You are responsible for determining the policies of a given newsgroup before posting to it.

Posting or cross-posting the same or substantially similar messages to more than seven newsgroups is prohibited.

Do not post binary files to USENET groups not specifically named for such purposed, namely the *.binaries and .pictures hierarchies. Binary postings are not allowed in any knology. newsgroup, with the exception of small test postings to knology.test. Use your Knology FTP and web space to distribute binaries.

Newsgroup spamming: Spam is, first and foremost, a numerical metric-Posting substantively similar articles individually to multiple newsgroups is spamming by definition. This form of Spam is sometimes referred to as "excessive multi-posting" (EMP). Knology considers "multi-posting" to 7 or more groups within a two week sliding window to be excessive. Knology servers currently limit the number of allowable "cross-posts" to 7. The full version of the clarification and definition of what constitutes Spam is posted regularly to the newsgroup news.admin.net-abuse.misc. This article is posted once per week and is intended to describe the current consensus Spam thresholds and ensure that the definitions of the terms are available. It is believed that most Spam cancelers use these definitions and thresholds.

Flames, hostile attacks, or invectives aimed at a group or an individual poster, are generally considered inappropriate Knology service groups. Flames in the non-service groups are not encouraged. Many newsreaders offer filtering capabilities that will bring certain messages to your attention or skip over them all together (kill files).

You may not forge or remove header information. This includes attempts, whether successful or unsuccessful, to circumvent the approval process for posting to moderated groups or the issuance of news control messages. Knology may cancel such articles.

You may not cancel messages other than your own. You may cancel posts forged in your name.

Internet Relay Chat (IRC)

The Services may be used to participate in "chat" discussions. Knology Inc. will not monitor the contents of these discussions and is not liable for the contents of any communications made via Internet chat.

The Service may not be used to send messages which disrupt another user's equipment, including software, hardware, and user display.

These Services may not be used to "flood" a chat room or to perform acts of "flooding" of chat services. Flooding is defined as the deliberate act of repeating text-generating actions in quick succession in order to prevent other service users from utilizing the chat service.

The use of IRC "Bots" is prohibited, as is the violation of any accepted policies on IRC servers. If Knology is banned from a server, the offending account will be terminated.

Any computer or other device connected to through the services may not maintain more than three simultaneous chat connections. This includes the use of automated programs, such as "bot" or "clones".

The Service may not be used to access any chat server in violation of the acceptable use policy of that server. The Services may not be used to manipulate any chat server in order to disconnect or harass other Internet users, or to gain unauthorized access to network resources.

A customer may not use the Services to connect to chat servers or channels from which they have previously banned.

Financial

Reselling service without express written consent from Knology, or offering any public information service, such as running a web server or FTP server, is prohibited. Untimely payment of any and all amounts due may result in account cancellation.

Excessive Bandwidth or Disk Utilization

Knology reserves the right to set limits on bandwidth and disk utilization, and use in excess of those limits is not permitted. The total number of bytes transferred from an account's Web and FTP space determines bandwidth utilization. The total number of bytes required to store an account's Web, FTP, and Mail data determines disk utilization.

If excessive bandwidth or disk space utilization is determined to adversely affect Knology's ability to provide service, immediate action will be taken. The account owner will be notified by e-mail as soon as practicable.

Line of Service Demarcation

Knology Inc. will provide technical support for one modem and one computer connection to the Services of the network. Knology Inc. or any member of its technical support team does not support any additional internal networking within the customer's premise, regardless of who installed it.

Knology is not responsible for supporting and shared networking printer devices or other shared resources within the customer's premise.

Section 2. Reporting to Knology Abuse

If you are aware of a potential inappropriate use, please direct the information to Knology's abuse staff at abuse@knology.net. The staff will investigate potential violations carefully before taking action.

Contact personnel for abuse notification are as follows:

* General abuse e-mail account: abuse@knology.net. This account is checked daily.
* For network security related abuse (for networks outside of Knology) abuse@knology.net
* For questions about the AUP and internal concerns among Knology modem users (inquiries or complaints from users inside Knology's network) abuse@knology.net

All complaints we receive will be actively investigated, and action will be taken when and where it is appropriate. Depending upon the severity of the abuse and the history of the account involved, we may take any one or more of the following actions:

* issue warnings: written or verbal
* suspend newsgroup posting suspend the account
* terminate the account
* bill for administrative costs and/or reactivation charges.

Section 3. Rationale and Ruminations

Rationale

This Section attempts to provide a general understanding of Knology's Policy on the Appropriate Use of Knology Services. Common sense and judgment are a necessary part of any system of rules, and this AUP is no exception. Of course, flagrant or repeated violations of the policy are viewed in a very different light than minor infractions. Knology considers net-abuse an action that undermines the ability of the Internet to serve as a discussion medium. In addition, net-abuse may be a violation of state or federal law, or the laws of other countries.

Protection of our customers and our resources, the ability to provide quality service to our customers, conformance with existing law, and the protection of our reputation as a service provider are all contributing factors to decisions on AUP violations.

It is our intention to allow Knology customers access to everything the Internet has to offer with minimal or no interference. Our belief in free speech is a firm commitment to our customers. However, just as free speech does not include the right to shout "Fire" in a crowded theater, certain activities are considered inappropriate by the Internet community at large and cannot be permitted under the guise of free speech.

Knology does not censor the content of any newsgroups. We believe such choices should be left to the individual. We do advise our users that tools are available to screen an account's access to newsgroups one considers offensive. It is the account owner's responsibility to make use of such tools if desired.

Knology does not monitor the activity of accounts except for measurements of system utilization and billing records. However, in our efforts to promote good citizenship within the Internet community, if we become aware of inappropriate use of Knology service, we will respond.

If a Knology account is used to violate the AUP, we reserve the right to terminate service without notice. Our preferred course of action would be to advise the account owner of the inappropriate behavior and corrective action necessary. However, flagrant violations of the AUP may result in immediate termination of service.

In the event that an account is temporarily inactivated as a result of any prohibited activities, the account may be subject to reactivation charges and/or deposit requirements determined by Knology.

Privacy

It may be necessary for Knology employees to examine system accounting logs and other records to resolve system problems. Knology reserves the right to access an account's mailbox to resolve system problems or mail system errors.

In addition, Knology will cooperate with the appropriate legal authorities in investigating claims of illegal activity, including but not limited to illegal transfer or use of copyrighted material, postings or e-mail containing threats of violence, or other illegal activity.

Knology makes no guarantee and assumes no liability for the security of any data on any server including "secure servers".

Our customers are reminded that no computer system should be considered safe from intrusion. E-mail may pass through many computer systems, and should not be considered a secure means of communication unless encrypted. Even then, information is only secure as the encryption method.

"WE", "US" AND "OUR" REFER TO KNOLOGY, INC. "YOU" AND "YOUR" REFER TO YOU AS OUR CUSTOMER. "TERMS" MEANS THESE GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS. "SERVICE(S)" REFERS TO ANY CABLE SERVICES, INTERNET SERVICES AND/OR TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES FOR WHICH WE ACCEPT YOUR ORDER, ALONG WITH ANY RELATED INSTALLATION, MAINTENANCE OR REPAIR SERVICES WE PROVIDE TO YOU. "EQUIPMENT" MEANS ANY HARDWARE OR SOFTWARE WE USE OR PROVIDE TO YOU IN CONNECTION WITH SERVICES.

I. TERMS APPLICABLE TO ALL SERVICES.

1. OUR DUTIES. SUBJECT TO THESE TERMS, WE WILL PROVIDE YOU SERVICES AND YOU WILL PAY FOR THOSE SERVICES. YOU AGREE THAT THE TERMS INCLUDE, AND INCORPORATE BY THIS REFERENCE, OUR RESIDENTIAL INTERNET APPROPRIATE USE POLICY (AUP), A CURRENT COPY OF WHICH CAN BE FOUND ON THE INTERNET AT WWW.KNOLOGY.COM, AND YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT YOU HAVE REVIEWED, UNDERSTAND AND AGREE TO THE AUP. THESE TERMS WILL APPLY TO ANY ORDERS YOU PLACE WITH US THAT WE ACCEPT. WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO AMEND OR MODIFY THESE TERMS (INCLUDING THE AUP) BY POSTING REVISED TERMS ON OUR WEBSITE AND BY GIVING YOU NOTICE OF SUCH REVISIONS. YOU AGREE THAT YOUR FAILURE TO CANCEL ALL SERVICES WITHIN TEN (10) DAYS AFTER RECEIVING NOTICE OF REVISED TERMS WILL SIGNIFY YOUR AGREEMENT TO THOSE REVISED TERMS.

2. AVAILABILITY OF THE SERVICE. WE ARE NOT LIABLE TO YOU FOR SERVICE PERFORMANCE ISSUES WHICH ARE CAUSED IN WHOLE OR IN PART BY YOU, BY YOUR EQUIPMENT (E.G., VCR, TV, COMPUTER) OR EQUIPMENT YOU INSTALL OR MAINTAIN OR HAVE A THIRD PARTY INSTALL OR MAINTAIN. WE ARE NOT LIABLE FOR UNAVAILABILITY OF, OR ADVERSE PERFORMANCE OF, SERVICES DURING PERIODS OF MODIFICATIONS, UPGRADES, RELOCATION, REPAIRS TO THE EQUIPMENT USED BY US OR A SUPPLIER.

3. EQUIPMENT.
(A) ACCESS. WE MAY NEED TO INSTALL, MAINTAIN, REPAIR OR REMOVE EQUIPMENT ON YOUR PREMISES IN CONNECTION WITH SERVICES, AND YOU AGREE TO COOPERATE WITH US IN GOOD FAITH TO ENABLE US TO INSTALL THE EQUIPMENT. YOU HEREBY GRANT TO US AND OUR AGENTS FULL RIGHT AND AUTHORITY OF ENTRY AND ACCESS, ACROSS, UNDER AND OVER THE PREMISES AND ANY PROPERTY NECESSARY TO REACH THE PREMISES OR EQUIPMENT, FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, INSPECTING, MAINTAINING, REPAIRING AND REMOVING THE EQUIPMENT, RUNNING WIRING THROUGH THE PREMISES THROUGH INTERNAL AND EXTERIOR WALLS, AND FOR DOING ALL THINGS NECESSARY AND REASONABLE WITH RESPECT TO THE SERVICES OR EQUIPMENT, FOR AS LONG AS WE PROVIDE SERVICE OR FOR AS LONG AS EQUIPMENT IS LOCATED ON THE PREMISES. YOU REPRESENT AND WARRANT TO US THAT (A) YOU ARE EITHER THE OWNER OF THE PREMISES OR A TENANT OR OTHER LAWFUL OCCUPANT OF THE PREMISES AND (B) YOU HAVE THE AUTHORITY TO GRANT US THE RIGHT AND AUTHORITY OF ENTRY AND ACCESS STATED ABOVE.
(B) OWNERSHIP OF EQUIPMENT. WE MAY PERMIT YOU TO BUY CERTAIN EQUIPMENT FROM US; IF YOU BUY SUCH EQUIPMENT, YOU AGREE TO PAY US ITS FULL RETAIL PRICE, PLUS TAX. EXCEPT FOR INSIDE WIRING, WHICH WE CONSIDER YOUR PROPERTY REGARDLESS OF WHO INSTALLED IT, AND EQUIPMENT YOU BUY FROM US, THE EQUIPMENT IS, AND SHALL ALWAYS REMAIN, SOLELY AND EXCLUSIVELY OUR PROPERTY. YOU AGREE TO ABIDE AT ALL TIMES BY THE TERMS OF ANY AND ALL LICENSE AGREEMENTS ASSOCIATED WITH ANY EQUIPMENT WHICH CONSIST OF COMPUTER SOFTWARE OR FIRMWARE. CERTAIN EQUIPMENT MAY BE SUBJECT TO THIRD PARTY WARRANTIES WHICH MAY BE PASSED THROUGH US TO YOU AT NO ADDITIONAL CHARGE. WHERE YOU HAVE BOUGHT AND PAID FOR EQUIPMENT, WE WILL COMPLY WITH ALL REASONABLE REQUIREMENTS NECESSARY TO EFFECT THE PASS-THROUGH OF THE WARRANTY TO YOU. AT ITS SOLE OPTION, WE MAY REPLACE DEFECTIVE EQUIPMENT ON BEHALF OF THE MANUFACTURER, PROVIDED YOU FOLLOW ALL APPLICABLE PROCEDURES AND OBTAIN A RETURN MATERIALS AUTHORIZATION (RMA) NUMBER. WE MAY, AT OUR OPTION, SUPPLY NEW OR RECONDITIONED EQUIPMENT TO YOU. WE WILL HAVE NO LIABILITY WHATSOEVER TO YOU OR TO ANY THIRD PARTY FOR ANY LIABILITY, LOSS, DAMAGE, OR EXPENSE ARISING OUT OF EQUIPMENT PROVIDED BY YOU OR BY A THIRD PARTY. YOU WILL NOT MOVE THE EQUIPMENT FROM THE LOCATION WITHIN THE PREMISES WHERE IT IS INSTALLED OR PERMIT ANYONE ELSE TO DO SO WITHOUT OUR PRIOR WRITTEN PERMISSION. YOU WILL NOT OPEN, TAMPER WITH, MAKE ANY CHANGES TO, OR TRY TO REPAIR, THE EQUIPMENT, OR PERMIT ANYONE ELSE TO DO SO, WITHOUT OUR PRIOR WRITTEN PERMISSION. YOU ASSUME ALL RISK OF LOSS FOR ANY EQUIPMENT PROVIDED TO YOU OR LOCATED ON THE PREMISES.
(C) INSIDE WIRING. WE CONSIDER INSIDE WIRING TO BE YOUR PROPERTY, REGARDLESS OF WHO INSTALLED IT, AND IT IS YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO MAINTAIN AND REPAIR THE INSIDE WIRING. IF YOU HAVE US REPAIR OR MAINTAIN THE INSIDE WIRING AT THE PREMISES, WE MAY CHARGE YOU, AND YOU WILL PAY, ADDITIONAL FEES FOR THAT WORK BASED ON THE TIME AND MATERIALS REQUIRED TO COMPLETE THE REPAIR OR MAINTENANCE. YOU REPRESENT, WARRANT AND AGREE THAT THE INSIDE WIRING AT THE PREMISES WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH THE NORMAL OPERATIONS OF SERVICES OR OUR PROVISION OF SERVICES TO OTHER USERS. LINE ASSURE FOR CABLE TELEVISION COVERS THE COST OF TROUBLESHOOTING AND REPAIRING PROBLEMS WITH THE INTERNAL WIRING AND CONNECTORS THROUGHOUT A CUSTOMER&#65533;S HOME. IT IS AVAILABLE AT ONE LOW

MONTHLY FEE TO COVER THE WIRING AND CONNECTORS USED FOR CABLE TELEVISION SERVICES. LINE ASSURE DOES NOT COVER THE COST TO RUN AND INSTALL NEW OUTLETS, REPAIRS TO CUSTOMER OWNED EQUIPMENT, DAMAGE CAUSED BY ACTS OF GOD (FIRE, FLOOD, ETC.) OR BY WILLFUL DESTRUCTION, SERVICE PROBLEMS THAT WERE OBVIOUS AT THE TIME OF SUBSCRIPTION, OUTLETS THAT DO NOT MEET INDUSTRY STANDARDS, AND REPAIRS THAT CANNOT BE MADE DUE TO SAFETY CONCERNS.

4. CREDIT CHECK AND DEPOSITS. YOU GIVE US PERMISSION TO OBTAIN YOUR CREDIT INFORMATION FROM CONSUMER CREDIT REPORTING AGENCIES AT ANY TIME. IF WE BILL YOU FOR THE SERVICES AND WE DETERMINE THAT YOU MAY BE A CREDIT RISK FOR (1) UNSATISFACTORY CREDIT RATING; (2) INSUFFICIENT CREDIT HISTORY; (3) FRAUDULENT OR ABUSIVE USE OF ANY KNOLOGY SERVICES WITHIN THE LAST FIVE YEARS; OR (4) LATE PAYMENTS FOR CURRENT OR PRIOR BILLS, WE MAY REQUIRE A DEPOSIT (OR AN ADVANCE PAYMENT AS PERMITTED BY STATE LAW) TO ENSURE PAYMENT FOR THE SERVICES. THE AMOUNT OF THE DEPOSIT WILL BE NO MORE THAN ANY ESTIMATED ONE-TIME CHARGES REQUIRED FOR THE SERVICES, PLUS THREE MONTHS OF THE ESTIMATED AVERAGE PER-MINUTE CHARGES AND/OR MONTHLY FEES FOR THE SERVICES. WE WILL PAY SIMPLE INTEREST AT THE ANNUAL RATE DETERMINED BY THE STATE LAW WHERE YOU RECEIVE THE SERVICES. IF YOU FAIL TO PAY FOR THE SERVICES WHEN DUE, WE MAY USE THE DEPOSIT WITHOUT GIVING NOTICE TO YOU.

5. CREDIT LIMITS. IF WE BILL YOU FOR THE SERVICES, WE MAY SET A CREDIT LIMIT BASED ON YOUR PAYMENT HISTORY OR YOUR CREDIT SCORE FROM CONSUMER CREDIT REPORTING AGENCIES. IF WE DO THIS, WE WILL NOTIFY YOU OF YOUR INITIAL CREDIT LIMIT AND ALL CHANGES TO YOUR CREDIT LIMIT. IF YOU EXCEED YOUR CREDIT LIMIT, WE WILL RESTRICT YOUR ACCESS TO THE SERVICES. IF YOU FAIL TO MAKE TIMELY PAYMENTS, WE MAY ALSO LOWER YOUR CREDIT LIMIT.

6. CHARGES. EACH INVOICE FOR SERVICES IS DUE AND PAYABLE, AND YOU WILL PAY SUCH INVOICE IN FULL, WITHIN TWENTY-FIVE (25) DAYS OF YOUR RECEIPT OF THE INVOICE. YOU AGREE TO REVIEW EACH INVOICE PROMPTLY AND TO NOTIFY US OF ANY BILLING DISPUTE WITHIN FOURTEEN (14) DAYS OF RECEIPT OF THE INVOICE. YOU AGREE THAT, IF YOU DO NOT NOTIFY US OF A DISPUTE WITHIN FOURTEEN (14) DAYS OF RECEIPT OF THE INVOICE, YOU HAVE WAIVED ALL RIGHTS TO DISPUTE THAT INVOICE. YOU FURTHER AGREE TO PAY ANY SALES, GROSS RECEIPTS, USE, EXCISE, ACCESS OR OTHER LOCAL, STATE OR FEDERAL TAXES AND CHARGES IN CONNECTION WITH THE PROVISION, SALE OR USE OF THE SERVICES (EXCEPT FOR TAXES MEASURED ON OUR GROSS INCOME). YOU AGREE TO PAY INTEREST ON ANY AMOUNTS NOT PAID WHEN DUE, AT THE RATE OF 1.5% PER MONTH UNTIL SUCH AMOUNT IS PAID IN FULL. YOU AGREE THAT YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL CHARGES FOR USE OF SERVICES AND FOR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER OR NOT SUCH USE WAS AUTHORIZED BY YOU. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT YOU HAVE BEEN PROVIDED WITH THE RATES AND CHARGES FOR SERVICES. RATES FOR INTERSTATE AND INTERNATIONAL LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE SERVICE ARE AVAILABLE ON-LINE AT WWW.KNOLOGY.COM.

7. TERM. THESE TERMS WILL REMAIN IN EFFECT UNTIL YOU ARE NO LONGER TAKING ANY SERVICES AND ALL OF OUR EQUIPMENT PROVIDED TO YOU OR INSTALLED ON THE PREMISES HAS BEEN RETURNED TO US AND YOU HAVE PAID ALL CHARGES INCURRED IN CONNECTION WITH SERVICES AND RELATED EQUIPMENT. ALL

SERVICES ARE PROVIDED TO YOU ON A MONTH-TO-MONTH BASIS. UPON CANCELLATION OR TERMINATION OF ANY SERVICE, YOU AGREE TO PROMPTLY RETURN TO US ANY RELATED EQUIPMENT LOCATED ON YOUR PREMISES (OTHER THAN EQUIPMENT YOU BOUGHT FROM US AND PAID FOR IN FULL) IN ITS ORIGINAL CONDITION AND WORKING ORDER, EXCEPT FOR NORMAL WEAR AND TEAR. IF WE HAVE TO RETRIEVE EQUIPMENT FROM YOU, YOU WILL PAY A $9.95 PICKUP FEE. IF EQUIPMENT IS LOST OR DAMAGED OR OTHERWISE NOT RETURNED TO US IN ITS ORIGINAL CONDITION AND WORKING ORDER, EXCEPT FOR NORMAL WEAR AND TEAR, YOU WILL PAY US ITS FULL RETAIL PRICE, PLUS TAX.

8. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY. OUR LIABILITY ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH THESE TERMS, ANY SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT (INCLUDING LIABILITY ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH MISTAKES, ACCIDENTS, OMISSIONS, INTERRUPTIONS, ERRORS OR DEFECTS IN TRANSMISSION WITH RESPECT TO SERVICES OR EQUIPMENT) SHALL BE SUBJECT TO THE LIMITATIONS SET FORTH BELOW, AS WELL AS ANY LIMITATION CONTAINED ELSEWHERE IN THESE TERMS OR IN ANY APPLICABLE TARIFFS. OUR TOTAL LIABILITY TO YOU ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH THESE TERMS OR ANY SERVICES IS LIMITED TO ACTUAL, DIRECT DAMAGES, BUT IN NO EVENT SHALL WE BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ANY AMOUNT IN EXCESS OF THE TOTAL AMOUNTS YOU PAID TO US FOR SERVICES DURING THE TWELVE (12) MONTH PERIOD PRIOR TO THE TIME WHEN THE LIABILITY AROSE. IN NO EVENT WILL WE OR OUR DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, STOCKHOLDERS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS AND AFFILIATES BE LIABLE TO YOU OR TO ANY THIRD PARTY WITH RESPECT TO THESE TERMS, ANY SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT FOR ANY TYPE OF INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, INCIDENTAL, RELIANCE, ACTUAL, SPECIAL, OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES, OR FOR ANY LOST PROFITS, LOST REVENUES, OR LOST SAVINGS OF ANY KIND, WHETHER ARISING UNDER A CONTRACT, WARRANTY, NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, OR OTHER THEORY, AND WHETHER OR NOT WE WERE ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES OR WHETHER OR NOT SUCH DAMAGES WERE FORESEEABLE. THESE LIMITS DO NOT APPLY TO DAMAGES FOR DEATH OR BODILY INJURY.

9. NO RESALE AND FIXED LOCATION USE. SERVICES AND EQUIPMENT ARE FOR YOUR EXCLUSIVE PERSONAL USE ONLY AND YOU WILL NOT SHARE, RESELL OR ASSIGN THE SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT (OTHER THAN EQUIPMENT YOU BOUGHT FROM US), NOR ALLOW ANY THIRD PARTY TO USE THE SERVICES OR ANY EQUIPMENT, WITHOUT OUR PRIOR WRITTEN CONSENT. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT THE SERVICES ARE FIXED-LOCATION SERVICES AND MAY NOT BE MOVED TO, OR USED FROM, ANY LOCATION OTHER THAN THE LOCATION TO WHICH THE SERVICES ARE FIRST PROVIDED, WITHOUT PAYMENT OF NEW CONNECTION FEES AND ANY APPLICABLE EARLY CANCELLATION CHARGE, IF APPLICABLE. IF YOU CHANGE RESIDENCES, YOU SHALL PROMPTLY NOTIFY US.

10. EVENTS OF DEFAULT. YOU WILL BE "IN DEFAULT" IF (I) YOU FAIL TO MAKE PAYMENT WHEN DUE AND SUCH FAILURE REMAINS UNCORRECTED FOR FIVE (5) CALENDAR DAYS AFTER NOTICE BY US; OR (II) YOU BREACH ANY OTHER PROVISION OF THESE TERMS AND ANY SUCH FAILURE REMAINS UNCORRECTED FOR TEN (10) DAYS AFTER NOTICE BY US. WE MAY REFUSE, SUSPEND, DISCONTINUE, OR TERMINATE ANY SERVICE(S) AND REMOVE ANY AND ALL EQUIPMENT WITHOUT NOTICE IN THE EVENT (A) YOU ARE IN DEFAULT, OR (B) THE SERVICE IS USED IN A MANNER THAT VIOLATES THESE TERMS OR ADVERSELY AFFECTS OUR PROVISION OF

SERVICE TO YOU OR TO ANY OF OUR OTHER USERS. IN ADDITION, YOU AGREE THAT, IF YOU ARE IN DEFAULT, YOU WILL PAY ALL ATTORNEYS' FEES, COLLECTION FEES, LATE CHARGES AND ANY SIMILAR EXPENSES INCURRED BY US IN THE ENFORCEMENT OF OUR RIGHTS OR YOUR OBLIGATIONS.

11. INDEMNIFICATION. YOU HEREBY AGREE TO INDEMNIFY, DEFEND AND HOLD HARMLESS US, OUR DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, STOCKHOLDERS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS AND AFFILIATES FROM AND AGAINST ANY LIABILITY, LOSS, DAMAGE, OR EXPENSE, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, REASONABLE ATTORNEYS' FEES ARISING OUT OF, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, ANY ACTUAL OR THREATENED CLAIM, SUIT, ACTION, OR PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF (I) USE OR MISUSE OF ANY SERVICE OR EQUIPMENT BY YOU OR ANYONE ELSE ACCESSING SERVICES OR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER AUTHORIZED BY YOU OR NOT, OR (II) ANY ACT OR OMISSION BY YOU OR ANYONE ELSE ACCESSING SERVICES OR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER AUTHORIZED BY YOU OR NOT WHICH VIOLATES, OR IS ALLEGED TO VIOLATE, THESE TERMS.

12. SELF-INSTALLATION. AT OUR SOLE OPTION, WE MAY PERMIT YOU TO PERFORM INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT (FOR EXAMPLE, NETWORK CARDS, INSIDE WIRING) OR TO HAVE INSTALLATION PERFORMED BY A THIRD PARTY SELECTED BY YOU. YOU AGREE THAT INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT BY YOU OR A THIRD PARTY CHOSEN BY YOU MAY PREVENT YOU FROM SUCCESSFULLY ACCESSING, OPERATING OR USING THE SERVICES, AND THAT SUCH INSTALLATION MAY CAUSE DAMAGE TO YOUR REAL PROPERTY OR PERSONAL PROPERTY (INCLUDING COMPUTERS, DATA, SOFTWARE, FILES OR PERIPHERALS), AND WE HAVE NO LIABILITY WHATSOEVER FOR ANY INABILITY TO USE THE SERVICES DUE TO INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT BY YOU OR A THIRD PARTY CHOSEN BY YOU. IN ADDITION, YOU HEREBY AGREE TO INDEMNIFY, DEFEND AND HOLD HARMLESS US, OUR DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, STOCKHOLDERS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS AND AFFILIATES FROM AND AGAINST ANY LIABILITY, LOSS, DAMAGE, OR EXPENSE, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, REASONABLE ATTORNEYS' FEES ARISING OUT OF, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, ANY ACTUAL OR THREATENED CLAIM, SUIT, ACTION, OR PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF INSTALLATION OF EQUIPMENT BY YOU OR A THIRD PARTY CHOSEN BY YOU.

13. CUSTOMER SERVICE. OUR BUSINESS OFFICE IS OPEN FOR CUSTOMER VISITS MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY, EXCEPT HOLIDAYS. OUR TELEPHONE NUMBER IS PRINTED ON YOUR MONTHLY BILL. WHEN YOU CALL ABOUT A SERVICE PROBLEM, A CUSTOMER SERVICE REPRESENTATIVE (CSR), AVAILABLE 24 HOURS, WILL ATTEMPT TO DETERMINE THE NATURE OF THE PROBLEM. IF POSSIBLE, THE CSR WILL HELP YOU RESOLVE THE PROBLEM OVER THE TELEPHONE. IF THE PROBLEM CANNOT BE RESOLVED DURING THE CALL, THE CSR WILL SCHEDULE A SERVICE TECHNICIAN TO VISIT YOUR HOME, USUALLY WITHIN 24 HOURS OF THE TIME YOU CALL. IF OUR WORKLOAD PERMITS, THE SERVICE TECHNICIAN WILL BE DISPATCHED THAT VERY SAME DAY. FOR INSTALLATION, SERVICE CALLS OR OTHER INSTALLATION ACTIVITIES, WE WILL USE BEST EFFORTS TO ARRIVE DURING THE 'APPOINTMENT WINDOW' WE SPECIFY (EITHER A SPECIFIC TIME OR, AT A MAXIMUM, A FOUR-HOUR TIME BLOCK DURING BUSINESS HOURS). WE WILL NOT CANCEL OUR APPOINTMENT WITH YOU AFTER THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS IN THE BUSINESS DAY PRIOR TO A SCHEDULED APPOINTMENT. IF WE ARE RUNNING LATE FOR AN APPOINTMENT, WE WILL ATTEMPT TO CONTACT YOU AND WILL, AS NECESSARY, ATTEMPT TO RESCHEDULE TO A TIME WHICH IS CONVENIENT FOR YOU.

14. NO LIABILITY FOR CONTENT. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT WE HAVE NO RESPONSIBILITY FOR, OR OBLIGATION TO CONTROL, THE CONTENT AVAILABLE THROUGH THE SERVICES, AND THAT YOU ACCESS, USE AND TRANSMIT SUCH CONTENT AT YOUR OWN RISK. YOU AGREE THAT NEITHER WE NOR OUR DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, STOCKHOLDERS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS AND AFFILIATES WILL HAVE ANY LIABILITY WHATSOEVER FOR ANY CLAIMS, LOSSES, ACTIONS, DAMAGES, SUITS OR PROCEEDINGS ARISING OUT OF OR OTHERWISE RELATING TO THE ACCESS, USE OR TRANSMISSION OF SUCH CONTENT BY YOU OR BY ANY THIRD PARTY. HOWEVER, WE WILL HAVE THE RIGHT (BUT NOT THE OBLIGATION) TO ELECTRONICALLY MONITOR, FROM TIME TO TIME, CONTENT ACCESSED, TRANSMITTED OR USED BY YOU OR ANYONE ELSE ACCESSING SERVICES OR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER AUTHORIZED BY YOU OR NOT, AND TO DISCLOSE ANY INFORMATION AS NECESSARY TO SATISFY ANY LAW, REGULATION OR OTHER GOVERNMENTAL REQUEST, TO OPERATE THE SERVICES PROPERLY OR TO PROTECT US OR OTHER USERS. WE HAVE THE RIGHT (BUT NOT THE OBLIGATION) TO POST OR TO REMOVE ANY INFORMATION OR MATERIALS, IN WHOLE OR IN PART, THAT WE, IN ITS SOLE DISCRETION, DEEM TO BE UNACCEPTABLE, UNDESIRABLE, OR IN VIOLATION OF THESE TERMS.

15. INFRINGEMENT. YOU HEREBY AGREE TO INDEMNIFY, DEFEND AND HOLD HARMLESS US, OUR DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, STOCKHOLDERS, EMPLOYEES, AGENTS AND AFFILIATES FROM AND AGAINST ANY LIABILITY, LOSS, DAMAGE, OR EXPENSE, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, REASONABLE ATTORNEYS' FEES ARISING OUT OF, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, ANY ACTUAL OR THREATENED CLAIM, SUIT, ACTION, OR PROCEEDING BASED UPON A CLAIM THAT THE USE OF THE EQUIPMENT OR SERVICES BY YOU OR ANYONE ELSE ACCESSING SERVICES OR RELATED EQUIPMENT, WHETHER AUTHORIZED BY YOU OR NOT, INFRINGES THE COPYRIGHT, PATENT, TRADEMARK, TRADE SECRET, CONFIDENTIALITY, PRIVACY, OR OTHER INDUSTRIAL OR INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS, PROPRIETARY RIGHTS OR CONTRACTUAL RIGHTS OF ANY THIRD PARTY.

16. ACTS BEYOND OUR CONTROL. WE WILL NOT BE IN BREACH OF OUR OBLIGATIONS UNDER THESE TERMS IF OUR PERFORMANCE IS DELAYED OR PREVENTED BY ANY ACT OF GOD, FIRE, NATURAL DISASTER, ACCIDENT, RIOTS, WAR, TERRORISM, ACTS OF GOVERNMENT, SHORTAGE OF EQUIPMENT, SERVICES OR MATERIALS FROM OUR VENDORS, FAILURE OF TRANSPORTATION OR COMMUNICATION, THIRD PARTY NON-PERFORMANCE (INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, THE FAILURE OR PERFORMANCE OF CARRIERS, SUPPLIERS AND SUBCONTRACTORS), OR ANY OTHER CAUSE BEYOND OUR REASONABLE CONTROL, AND, AT OUR ELECTION, THE TIME FOR OUR PERFORMANCE IS EXTENDED FOR LENGTH OF THE CONDITION THAT CAUSED THE DELAY OR PREVENTED THE PERFORMANCE.

WITHOUT LIMITING THE FOREGOING, WE DO NOT WARRANT UNINTERRUPTED USE OR OPERATION OF THE EQUIPMENT OR SERVICES OR THAT ANY DATA OR FILES SENT BY OR TO YOU WILL BE TRANSMITTED IN UNCORRUPTED FORM OR WITHIN A REASONABLE PERIOD OF TIME.

20. SURVIVAL. THE OBLIGATIONS CONTAINED IN THIS AGREEMENT WITH RESPECT TO PAYMENT OF AMOUNTS DUE, LIMITATION OF LIABILITY, DISCLAIMERS OR EXCLUSIONS OF WARRANTIES, ARBITRATION AND INDEMNIFICATION SHALL SURVIVE TERMINATION OF THESE TERMS. EXCEPT AS EXPRESSLY PROVIDED IN THESE TERMS, NEITHER PARTY MAY AMEND OR MODIFY THESE TERMS EXCEPT BY A WRITING SIGNED BY BOTH PARTIES.

21. ASSIGNMENT. YOU MAY NOT ASSIGN THIS AGREEMENT WITHOUT OUR PRIOR WRITTEN CONSENT.

22. ENTIRE AGREEMENT. SUCH RE-PERFORMANCE OF SERVICES OR REPAIR OR REPLACEMENT OF NONCONFORMING EQUIPMENT SHALL CONSTITUTE OUR ENTIRE LIABILITY AND YOUR SOLE REMEDY UNDER THIS WARRANTY, WHETHER CLAIMS OR REMEDY ARE SOUGHT IN CONTRACT OR TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, OR OTHERWISE, WITHOUT LIMITATION). WE HAVE NO OBLIGATION OR LIABILITY HEREUNDER WITH RESPECT TO ANY FAILURE TO CONFORM TO THIS WARRANTY THAT IS NOT REPORTED TO US WITHIN THAT 30-DAY PERIOD.

(PREPARATION IS SOMETIMES NECESSARY TO AVOID DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION RELATING TO OTHER SUBSCRIBERS.) IF YOU WISH TO REVIEW YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION, PLEASE CONTACT US BY LETTER OR TELEPHONE TO ARRANGE FOR A REVIEW. THE REVIEW WILL BE AT OUR LOCAL SYSTEM BUSINESS OFFICE. That's whom I had in mind, to be sure, though they only have one thing in common, really -- being delusional buffoons, as the FNVW recently mentioned to me. "Farky", as Max calls him, is also an apposite epithet, as it is an acronym for something which currently escapes me but is very highly appropriate. "Porchy" is another good one, but I like "Felchy" more, since he seems to be so obsessed with it.

telephone Harassment is this whole other level that I'm certainly not

No, he isn't. PorchMonkey4Life, herein frogging Ying (believing him to be me, and Fredbot, and spooge, and Barbara's Cat, and jitter), _is_, however.

You're a funny one to talk, Wabbit. Real adults don't hide behind

Be aware, Steve, that your posts will be enough to set Mark and his buttie off on yet another flurry of unceasing, angst-filled diatribes that they call "rebuttals". Mark is hopeless. Always has been. He was recently described as being one who is trying to drive a square peg into a round hole, and while one must agree, I think it could have been further added that Mark is trying to drive that square peg with his rather thick forehead. Mark seems to have little understanding as to why he has been banned from several on-line groups. He cannot grasp the simple concept that he is not wanted. To Mark, being shunned is an affront to what he thinks he has to offer and, like a playground reject, he stupidly argues that he should be included.
Unfortunately for Mark the more he whines about not being included, the more he is pushed away.

Gird yourself, Steve. Prepare youself for no less than seventy forthcoming posts from Mark. And he won't stop there...seventy posts will cover but one day for Mark.

Oh, my, no. My area code is 604. No, it's just someone else being harassed, specifically Mark Morgan.

AFAIK, he hasn't even tried.

About 250,000 miles. It varies a bit because the moon's orbit is elliptical, not a perfect circle.

If you want more precise numbers, look them up in Wikipedia.

I've known all that since grade school.

Why do you ask? Don't you know?

You've made reference to someone on rrap making a mistake on the earth-to-moon distance, but have not said who it was.
Perhaps you were referring to yourself, and wanted to know for sure.

The answer is: about 250,000 miles

Question... Why did you give his name (especially his full name), genius?. Not cool man! Not cool! Who knows what as$clown out there will

On another note, use private phone (NetZero service)or grand

Maybe he'll make it? Perhaps "right out of the box." (punctuation enclosed in parenthesis per your fetish) means something different to you than to the rest of the population. The passage of seven years means that he didn't make it at all.

Well, that's how it goes. The ones who've NEVER worked in aerospace "know all about it" and are "experts," while those of us who HAVE worked in it "know nothing!" :-)

All have worked stations ON the moon...using CW, the

Yeah...I'm some kind of immoral corrupt person for paying CASH for things. [Jimmie is gathering stones for the stoning even as we write...] Tsk, next I will be "anti-American" for NOT using money-lenders!

I'm just sooooo vile. In 1969 I paid CASH for a '70 Chebby Camaro and never bought a new car on installments since. I may have to wash out my wallet with lye soap as punishment. [white over green, nice interior, 357 cubes, it was a great babe magnet...]

By the way that little Icom R-70 still works fine after nearly two decades. Still needs a good antenna, though, haven't bothered with a new long-wire for it in 9 years.

Jimmie NOserve, that oh-so-superior Anglophile, made a "plain and simple" MISTAKE. In olde Elisabethan word, not two. Jimmie not have visit from Stratford-

Jimmie know what "box" is? [doubtful] Jimmie ever IN

Yeah...I've utterly failed in life by not joining the Mighty Macho Morseman SERVICE, putting on their uniform medals on chest, punishing all who didn't salute their mighty morsemanship achievements of serving their country by pounding brass. Beep, beep, beep...

Most of the time, it hasn't been "harassment", as such (trolling the fuck out of you and flaming you don't qualify), but posting someone else's personal contact info is the very definition of harassing them.
If it isn't yours, though, I suppose it might be Lloyd's, or Dave Heil's, or Andy's, or anyone else Wabbit is afraid will find out his real name (assuming it isn't Woger after all) before he can trick someone else into taking his place, and at the same time get them to intimidate his target(s) into silence. Cowards. Feh.

Looney Maroon nominee for August 2006 Johnny D Wentzky foamed:
"You never asked someone who goes into areas of the internet that are only for adults who has an underage id somehow or another if they are a cop posing as an underage person online?
I guess lots of people just don't watch dateline or read stories much. Why don;t you go to pervertedjustice,com and see what they do. They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they lied to membners of the public.
They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they posed as an underage person and agreed to do all sorts of sex acts wioth adult males, and they are adults posing as teenager themselves. They make themsleves into liars by falsely impersonating underage persons and by not fuilfilling the words they tell the victims online in their chats. Why don't you read it where they tell these victims of their deceit about how they have been with grown men and such? Why don't you read it where they say, "That would be cool." after someone makes an advance towards an adult who is posing as a teenager? And, where they agree to meet the person, etc.
Lost control, didn't you?
Is that why you feel as if you need to lie so much now? I see where lots of these false impersonation games are not sticking. They feel as if they can lie and then order the victims to get counseling in the gayblade, governmental, pro-choice tax leech counseling centers. They are doing nothing more than usury and fraud in many cases." -- Wentzky almost comes out of the closet as a pedo/ephebophile in MID:

Yingnym you have been exposed already as TGOOS,DPOA,DLOC,TCOFS,Henry and a whole host of others. What's the dillio? It's like you're an 1200 lb man hiding behind an Aloe Vera Plant and thinking that no one can see of not being a Ying nym. If you are not a Ying nym that you are a member of Ying's household (which to me counts as friggin Ying himself) connecting to the same crappy four port router/hub that you have in your government HUD house. Any way you slice it you are all lame mo-fos that

Time to end the debate I suppose...

Looks like the FCC will make it official on February 23 of this year and go along with the rest of the world. Code testing will no longer be required for ANY class license it seems after that date.

We all knew it was coming, but it's sort of sad to see it go.

Get it now?

This is how they keep the Morse filter in place while pleasing the activist no-code subset of ARRL membership.

The FCC and ARRL have done everything they can. You can't complain to them anymore. They have done their job.

But now you will have to figure out who publishes the FR and, in doing so, discover that no mere mortal has the power to escalate their editorial policy and the FR can take forever to publish this if they so desire. There is no law that says they must publish anything. at any certain time.

Gordon West and ARRL may have a big inventory of code practice tapes to sell first ;-))

And the FR chief editor could be FISTS number 00001 for all you know.

Live and learn.

Heh heh, I don't care either way personally. I also like to drive stick shift and the DMV removed the standard transmission test so many years ago I can hardly remember when they tested for it The automatic transmission-only drivers, however, did not have to wait for the relaxation to appear in the FR.

Best Regards,

Stefan

Hi Jim,

Are you saying that the standards for, say the late 1950's were higher than thay are now?

Did you read my posts with the excerpts from the 1956 Ameco study guide and sample F.C.C. tests? Perhaps my assessment of the tests as indeed not being more difficult is inaccurate in your opinion?

In addition, imagine my surprise when I opened up that little booklet and saw the "sample questions" Right there, Question first, and answer "A" through "D". Then an answer section in the back of the book!
All this in 1956, long before Bash and the present day question pool...

After all, how may ways are there to ask the same questions?

I too am a sad to see Morse code testing go away, espcially from a historical view, but I fear that some of the superior attitudes, and sometimes outright misrepresentation put forward by some hams regarding how much better a vetting process the old old system was is going to be a greater threat to the ARS than any code test elimination ever was.

We're discussing amateur radio, Len. You are not a neophyte in amateur radio--yet.

...but you are not, after several decades of self-declared interest in amateur radio, more than a decade of posting to an amateur radio newsgroup and seven years after boasting of your going for "an Extra right out of the box", a radio amateur. Happy Anniversary!

That isn't correct, Len. Jim wrote "if Len were to obtain a license, set up an amateur station and get it on the air". If you did those things, you status could be "inactive", "slightly active", etc. You'd, of course, have to meet the qualifications for obtaining an amateur radio license. You haven't done so. Keep waiting though; it is getting easier and easier as the qualifications continue to drop.

I don't have any royal titles, Len. I've never thought I did. I don't think Jim thinks he has any royal titles either. Perhaps you meant that we're radio amateurs and you aren't.

No, Len is wrong. I wrote the words to which you responded.

I agree. Amteurism is certainly a mistaken notion.

Get it right, Len. I wrote the words. We're aren't talking about "amteurism" or even "amateurism" here. If you mean Morse Code and amateur radio, say so. I don't believe that amateur radio and Morse Code are the same thing.

No, Anderson is wrong again. I wrote the words to which you responded.

No, Len, that isn't what the ARRL does. It isn't small and though it has a headquarters in New England, its directors come from all over the country as do its vice-directors. It has Section Managers all over the country as well. Those are all elected positions. It is my view that the ARRL has a better handle on what is good for amateur radio than some disgruntled California retiree who has never been a radio amateur. I hope that puts things in perspective for you.

See, Leonard? You DO have an ax to grind with the American Radio Relay League.

You know, a PROFESSIONAL writer could have put together a better sentence. I've neither read nor seen anything which would indicate to me that anyone at the League idolizes anything. Your "self-defined by them" stuff is meaningless to me.

By that token, amateur radio license numbers aren't keeping up with the changes in population. There are still more radio amateurs per capita than there were in the 1930's, 1940's and 1950's. You should find yourself a valid rant.

Since you aren't a radio amateur, I've got a decided advantage over you in amateur radio, Len. I have more experience in HF radio operation. I'm a better CW op than you. I've never seen you write anything about playing the guitar so I'll wager I'm a better, more experienced guitar player than you. I'm likely more traveled and I think I have a better knowledge of world geography and world events. There are probably some things in which you are better than me. That's the way the world works.

It'd be nice if you could learn to accept it in your eighth decade.

Please point us to an instance where he has done so. A single example will do. I remember him correcting a few errors for a veteran posting here. Is that something he shouldn't have done?

Wasn't there a draft during the time you entered the service, Len?
Are we to suspect that you enlisted to avoid the draft?

So you think I might have gone to Vietnam to avoid the draft and that I enlisted for four years to avoid doing two years?

> Heil says NOTHING in detail of his duties or

I've told you that there are web sites in which I've recounted my duties in Vietnam. That you haven't or won't look, isn't my problem. I haven't told you. That bothers you. As soon as you provide some evidence that I owe you an explanation, I'll comply.

You were told? The first person account that you provided is something

Why do you accept those words and discount the military experiences of others? Shouldn't your "sphincter post" have mentioned that you were told by combat veterans what it was like to undergo an artillery barrage, instead of giving the impression that you had gone through one?

Excuse me. Isn't that what you provided? Didn't you imply that you had the experience of undergoing an artillery barrage WITHOUT having your own experience as a baseline?

number of both Republican and Democratic administrations.

That we know something--in fact a number of somethings which you don't know--chafes you to no end. In amateur radio, we are superior to you. You are a non-entity in amateur radio. The guy who got his first license last week is your amateur radio superior.

That's the way most folks get their money. They work for it and they earn it. Yet on a number of occasions, you've mentioned "the fleecing

I believe you got the beef license. In over a decade here, you've had one beef after another.

> indeed not being more difficult is inaccurate in your opinion?

It's not about "difficulty" but about how much relevant info a person had to know and understand to pass the tests.

The Ameco guide you refer to - what license class was it for?

I have the old ARRL License Manuals from 1948, 1951, 1953, 1962, and 1971. They contained the study guides provided by FCC, but not the actual Q&A used on the tests.

Having read all of them cover-to-cover, I can say I think the standards were higher then.

> In addition, imagine my surprise when I opened up that little > booklet and saw the "sample questions" Right there, Question first, and > answer "A" through "D". Then an answer section in the back of the book!
> All this in 1956, long before Bash and the present day question pool...

Those sample questions were not the actual questions used on the test. They were simply made up by Ameco.

> After all, how may ways are there to ask the same questions?

Lots of ways:

For example, which of the following requires more knowledge:

Question 1:

The length of a half-wave wire dipole for 7.150 MHz is about:

a) 100 feet long
b) 50 feet long
c) 67 feet long
d) 40 feet long

Question 2:

Determine the length of a half-wave wire dipole for 7.150 MHz, using the appropriate formula. Show all work.

That's just one question.

--

Here's another example: In the old exam methods, there would be a few sample questions on Ohm's Law for DC, as an example. These would not be the exact questions on the actual exam, though, but they would cover the general areas of resistance, power, parallel, series, etc. So the typical ham-to-be would learn those subjects backwards, forwards and sideways, in order to be ready for anything on the test.

But with the actual Q&A available, all one needs to do is to be able to solve the particular problems in those questions - or recognize the correct answer out of the four supplied.

In looking at the old study guides vs. the new, it seems to me that the old exams focused on a relatively few number of subjects, but covered those subjects in some depth. The new tests seem to me to cover a wide range of subjects, but in very little depth.

Want to see a summary of the old study guides, and some sample questions? I'll post them if you are interested.

> I too am a sad to see Morse code testing go away, espcially from a > historical view, but I fear that some of the superior attitudes, and > sometimes outright misrepresentation put forward by some hams regarding > how much better a vetting process the old old system was is going to be > a greater threat to the ARS than any code test elimination ever was.

I think the old process was a better process in some ways and a worse process in other ways.

I think that in the past couple of decades the focus has been too much on learning just enough to pass the test, and reducing how much has to really be learned to pass those tests, rather than understanding basic radio. I don't think it helps a newcomer to have a license yet not know the basics, like how to put up an effective HF antenna in a limited space.

When I was a beginner, it was not unusual for complete newcomers to build their own first stations - receiver and transmitter - from scratch. Kitbuilding was even more common. Look at the beginner projects of 40-50 years ago vs. today - they tell the story.

I think the best system we ever had was the one in the late 1970s. In those days, FCC gave all the tests except Novice. Tests were given in FCC offices all over the country. In addition, if a group could guarantee a certain minimum number of test-takers, FCC would send a traveling-road-show examiner to a club meeting, hamfest, or other gathering.

The result was that there was testing available all over the place, but the Q&A weren't available publicly.

And consider this: There are classes today that promise "Technician in a day" - and they succeed. Is that a good thing, though? Do the new hams who get their licenses that way really have the background needed?

Okay, UnWiseman, we'll play games. You've posted the wrong telephone number.

Let's use 1 (304) 845-0109. For an address, let's use Roger L. Wiseman, 610 Glen Haven Avenue, Glen Dale, WV 26038 USA. Wiseman holds amateur radio callsign AB8MQ.

For all the assorted characters who enjoy cross-posting to the rec.radio.amateur.policy newsgroup and who would like a jpeg of Wabbit's house, drop me an e-mail.

In lieu of bothering Dave, one can instead look at http://www.whywogersucks.blogspot.com/ for not only a photo of Roger's house, but also a screen shot of his property taxes. Roger doesn't exactly live in the Taj Mahal, as you will see. In fact, Roger's property is valued at less than what many of you may have paid for your vehicles.
There are a lot of mental problems hiding behind those doors, as his local police dept. well knows.

The difference is that in today's environment the student learns how to pass the test, rather than learning the actual material. Instead of learning E=IR, today's student memorizes the specific questions/answers on Ohm's law that are in the question pool. They might be able to tell you that the voltage drop across a 2 ohm resistor with 2 amps of current was 4 volts, but if you asked them why that was the case or what it meant, they wouldn't have a clue. Or care.

How bad this is depends on how you perceive the goal of the exam, and what you expect a newly-licensed amateur radio operator to be able to do.

If you perceive the exam as a barrier to entry, it continues to accomplish that goal. It serves as an indication that the individual was willing to dedicate enough effort to memorize the questions so that they could pass the test. Oddly enough, this is exactly the same thing that the code requirement did, with about the same amount of useful remaining knowledge for most people.

On the other hand, if you think that a newly-licensed amateur radio operator should actually know something about radio, that's simply not happening these days. They can tell you the very specific information that is covered on questions in the exam, but have no real knowledge of radio.

But look at the interest profile of the hams of the two time periods. Hams in the 60s were interested in radio, in building equipment, in fiddling with antennas. With minor exceptions, that is not true today. I'll have to admit that I don't know what is the big "draw" that's pulling new hams into the hobby, but it's not the same as 40-50 years ago.

In this sense, the testing and licensing mechanism has changed appropriately to match the current culture. Why should someone be required to learn radio theory if they are going to twirl the dial on a piece of commercial equipment? Rules and regulations, yes. But Ohm's law?

The background needed for what? For keying the mike on an HT? Yeah, maybe they do.

When I was licensed in 1963, I figure I spent about five hours a week for six weeks to learn the code and theory for the Novice license. Then I got on the air and spent time building up my code speed, plus learning enough theory to pass the General exam.

In today's world, the number of people willing to expend that much effort on a hobby is vanishingly close to zero. There are exactly two choices -- change the requirements to enter the hobby, or watch the hobby die. The requirements were changed.

So you walk this tightrope of trying to keep the barriers to entry high enough so that there is some Hello Mike.

Sigh...it's an old, old story with humans...whatever someone did in their (relative) youth was ALWAYS "more difficult" than what anyone else does in the present time! :-)

I've heard that song played over and over again for as long as I've been an adult. The lyrics might change a bit from decade to decade but the tune is the same. :-)

All these olde-tymers walked (uphill both ways) barefoot through the snow to take Their FCC exams. :-)

Funny you should mention 1956. It's a clear time in my life experience. In the summer of 1956 I was at H&H Electronics in Rockford, IL, talking to Gene Hubbel, then a W9, later W7DI (now SK). H&H had just gotten in some new study guides. Can't remember the publisher but I categorized all such as "Q&A" books. Must have been at least three different publishers around that time. I looked through a couple of them (always a nice "feel" to a brand new book out of the carton). An "in-your-face" customer asked me if I was going to take a test? I replied, "already did it in March" and pulled out my small First 'Phone ID card. Sneering he then asked "which [Q&A book] did I use?" I said "None" and, disbelieving, he was about to get physical over that!
[really, some folks wander around always looking for a fight] Gene distracted him before the small store got torn up. [not a big problem for me to handle physical stuff since I had been released from active Army duty in February] I had never used any Q&A book earlier that year because no store in town had them...had to settle for memorizing a borrowed copy of the FCC regs then published in loose-leaf format. Hard work, that, but it got done, I passed my First 'Phone but never "aced" it. Passing was good enough for me then. Didn't walk uphill both ways to Chicago, just rode the train 90 miles (shoes always on feet) to get there. <shrug>

I looked in here nearly a decade ago and there were the "in-your-face" yahoos tawkin 'bout how HARD it was for them...in the 60s...in the 70s...etc. :-)
The really rabid ones were going on about "the GROL ain't hard, not like the AMATEUR EXTRA!!!" :-)
They apparently were too young to remember that a GROL didn't get created until around 1980 or so. It eventually became a lifetime thing, no renewals necessary. Wasn't so in 1956 when a First 'Phone took at least two hours to complete four different test parts, only one of which was multiple-choice.

> I too am a sad to see Morse code testing go away, espcially from a

>sometimes outright misrepresentation put forward by some hams regarding

I really can't understand WHY some "vetting" process was needed. A hobby is an avocation, NOT an occupation.

Survival of amateur radio never did depend on "how well anyone sent code" nor was the country in danger if some sent it badly...neither was it more secure if some could send it "perfectly."

I've always regarded amateur radio as a FUN HOBBY. So many enjoy it. But, some take almost a perverse attitude in trying to "run it" according to Their standards...even personal desires. Nobody vetted Them as "bosses" but they strut around acting like bosses. Amateur radio is NOT an occupation, guild, craft, or something absolutely vital to national security. It is a HOBBY but some take it wayyyyy too seriously.

Part of the problem of this nostalgia thing about "how the older testing system 'worked so well'" lies with all the 50- and 60- somethings suddenly facing their own mortality. [we are ALL going to die, no exceptions, its in our designer genes] The "old" ways are a form of comfort, of security. They've survived them. They are comfortable with what they have but don't want to remember the struggle they had to reach to reach that pinnacle of their claimed knowledge and experience. Running around with a self-made (unofficial) "boss" title is NOT going to help the hobby, regardless of how good it makes Them feel.

The way I see it, the "threat" to the hobby that some cry and cry about is just a personal threat to the crier. They will LOSE their reference points for being "better" than others. TS. Federal laws and regulations aren't done to "better" the lives of minority hobbyists. Federal laws and regulations apply to ALL citizens.

Hey, "change happens!" :-)

No, Herr Robust, I've been advocating subjects concerning GETTING INTO US amateur radio. GETTING INTO. As in the TESTS necessary for GETTING INTO it.

That change of law (regulations) is about to be realized about the middle of next week (if we can believe the 'insiders' at the ARRL - Chris Imlay and his partners/staff probably).

>You've never in your life had an amateur radio license.

RIIIIIGHT!!! My, my, aren't you so schmardtt!

Must have taken your poor little 16 synapses all day to calculate that!

Oh, but wait...you were BORN with an amateur radio license? Don't tell us you did the "USAF thing" and "never went to school" on that?

Last I looked, absolutely NOBODY was born with a ham radio license. Everyone who has an amateur radio license NEVER HAD ONE IN THEIR LIFE before the were granted one! Really.

Funny thing, Herr Robust Oberst, but NOBODY AT THE FCC IS REQUIRED TO HAVE AN AMATEUR RADIO LICENSE! Those are the folks who grant ham licenses, remember? Those are the folks who decide the law on US amateur radio!

Sunnuvagun! Ain't that somethin' tho?

Herr Oberst, did you think that I "swung" the FCC into their decision on 06-178? I don't think so. Half of the document containing FCC 06-178 is devoted to nothing but names of those who commented on the NPRM. Not all of those had ham licenses...or even amateur radio licenses! Really!

You see, it's one of the really neat things about American government and the RIGHTS of citizens...we can ALL comment to our government. Really. It's a guarantee of our Constitution. Really.

Now, Herr Robust, you LOSE that threadbare Waffen SS uniform and the silly monocle. Your tuff guy act is trite, old, and out of place. Don't try to intimidate anyone with your bluster and bluff. It may work on teen-agers but not with us adults. We see through your pathetic little attempts at mind games. Those just don't work. Get a new act...like imitating a human being...then others wouldn't think you were such a prick.

FCC 06-178 has been decided. The code test will be GONE. Your "operator expertise" schtick is going to be broken. All you will be able to do is cry in your pablum and prune juice about "your" good old days when "you were tall dog in the pound" with your "CW" skills and your amateur Titles.

Fork you and the hearse you rode in on...

I couldn't care less about your deviant proclivities. The exchange of sexual barbs seems to center mostly around the exchanges you have with Wiseman, and we all know that he is far from the accepted definition of normal.
Your choice of "flavors" is just that...YOUR choice, and I will not again mention same. What actions Wiseman undertakes, on the other hand, is not for you or me to control. I feel that, in his case, the best action to take is no action. Ignore him. He hates being ignored and shunned and, come to think of it, is very much like you in that regard.

But it doesn't matter anyway, since his full personal contact info has been posted many times to rec.radio.amateur.policy, by at least one individual -- the one I have dubbed "Wabbit" (and who may well be Woger Wiseman, as his previously mentioned incarceration ca.2000 may or may not have occurred, and may or may not have ended if it did occur), in honour of his great courage in using a vast array of nyms, many of which are homophobic and based on Mark's name.

The Wabbit is truly homophobic and dances to backwards playing toons in his head that only he can hear. Like a song on a loop, Wabbit hears the song go round and round as he waits for his psycoactive drugs to calm his nerves and dry his foaming spittle.
The Wabbit won't answer his phone and allows loud replays of Loonie Tunes to block the sounds of visitors knocking on his Celtic door.
The Wabbit may be home, but he is is not all there if you unnerstan what I be saying.

QUOTED FROM YAHOO HOMEPAGE:

DETROIT, United States (AFP) - Philanderers beware: spouses caught cheating in Michigan could end up spending the rest of their life in prison.

And not the emotional kind.

The state's appeals court recently ruled that extramarital flings can be prosecuted as first-degree criminal sexual conduct, a felony punishable by up to life in jail.

"We cannot help but question whether the Legislature actually intended the result we reach here today," Judge William Murphy wrote in a unanimous Court of Appeals panel, "but we are curtailed by the language of the statute from reaching any other conclusion."

"Technically," he added, "any time a person engages in sexual penetration in an adulterous relationship, he or she is guilty of CSC I," the most serious sexual assault charge in the state's criminal code.

Michigan still lists adultery as a felony, although no one has been convicted of the offense since 1971.

Nobody really expects prosecutors to go after cheating spouses. But the ruling has the local legal community twittering about its genuine intended target.

One theory floating around the courthouse is that the judges were taking a jab at the state Supreme Court, which has decreed that judges must interpret statutory language adopted by the Legislature literally, whatever the consequences.

Many other states allow judges to reject a literal interpretation if they believe it would lead to an absurd result.

Judge Murphy wrote that he encouraged "the Legislature to take a second look at the statutory language if they are troubled by our ruling."

A spokesman for the attoney general, who publicly admitted to adultery in November, declined to say whether they would press for legislative amendments to make it clear that only violent felonies involving an unwilling victim could trigger a first-degree CSC charge.

"This is so bizarre that it doesn't even merit a response," Rusty Hill said.

The appeals court decision involved a man convicted of trading prescription painkillers for sex.

In an attempt to increase his jail time, prosecutors used an obscure provision of the state's criminal law to charge him with criminal sexual conduct, which occurs whenever "sexual penetration occurs under circumstances involving the commission of any other felony."

You're both idiots.

Landshark can "own" anything he wants that isn't a controlled substance, violates National Security, or requires a federal license for ownership (ie: automatic firearms) Using it is another subject.

As for "violating" anything, Morkie, your use of profanity, not-so-subtle attempts at being the "moderator", and substandard

As a person who took all the tests during the recent past - Technician 1999, General and Extra 2001 and couppled with my research into the issue, I respectfully disagree.

I'm not sure that this isn't changing the criteria in mid stream, but assuming it isn't, I would then say that the tests are indeed relevent today as well as apparently during that time.

Novice and General.

Okay, you show two separate and related questions. But that isn't the scope of the questions that I extracted from the study guide. Almost all the questions were in the form of your question 1.

Frankly, that is what I did for my Extra exam. That was much easier that trying to memorize the pool.

I am so weary of that chestnut. I suppose real engineers don't consult design manuals for hints and ideas.

In any field these days where it is necessary to prove that the worker has been exposed to a particular bit of knowledge, there will be a question pool. I've seen it for fields where a mistake can cost lives, such as study guides with question pools for electrical code work. I can get you the name of the book if you are skeptical. Its just how it is.
And I can remember what I studied for on my tests - I believe that the pool does no harm, and a de facto pool has existed for many years.

My own thoughts on how Amateur radio should be organized are that the higher classes of license should be earned by time in grade, so to speak. I don't think that an extra should not know how to erect a HF antenna, or have no experience with operations in general - and the present system allows that.

Of course, it is possible for the person to wait out the period of time before upgrading, but two things work against that - attrition due to lack of interest, and the likelyhood that a person who does simply wait it out without actually doing anything before upgrading is just going to be some sort of statistic.

Related story:

I wanted to "build a Heathkit". Not wanting to get one of the rare unbuilt ones and destroy it's value, I found an SB-200 at Dayton. I bought it and completely dissassembled it. I cleaned everything, replaced any parts that needed replaced, and some that didn't- like the many modes the previous owners had done. I got a copy of the assembly manual, and proceeded to put it back together. GReat gobs of fun, I'll tell ya!

I would agree with your point. In this day of 100 percent appliance stations, Amateurs should build as much as they can.

Well, that was when our tax dollars were going to other things.

I still am convinced that it essentially was available. Perhaps not in verbatim form, but close enough.

I think that the old novice test could have been taught in a day also. Much of what is on the Technician test is common sense.

As for needed background, I think that getting licensed, getting on the air and being elmered is what produces good hams.

Too much of what I have heard from a lot of old time hams is disdain for newcomers - even now before the "great unwashed" come into the hobby. Fortunately nickle Extras such as myself will be there to help, not belittle or chase away.

I think I'm going to go heat up the Garage and get to work on that mobile antenna I am building. Fun chat, Jim.

I can certainly understand people making an typo or spelling mistake once in a while. However, this individual's posts are so laden with spelling errors that it is "obviouss" that he was sleeping during grammar lessons at his elementary school.

Great. Did you boast that you were going to open it seven years ago?

Maybe it will be; maybe it won't be. You won't know for certain until you open it.

Len is in his eighth decade of life. There are limits on his ability to open the box containing his Extra Class license. He hasn't even paid for it with CASH yet.

Here's a sample - lots more to come.

>From the 1976 ARRL License Manual:

Study Question #31:

Draw a schematic diagram of a circuit having the following components:

(a) battery with internal resistance,
(b) resistive load,
(c) voltmeter,
(d) ammeter

Study Question #32:

>From the values indicated by the meters in the above circuit, how can the value of the resistive load be determined? How can the power consumed by the load be determined?

Study Question #33:
In the above circuit, what must the value of the resistive load be in order for the maximum power to be delivered from the battery?

Study Question #34:
Draw the schematic diagram of an RF power amplifier circuit having the following components:

(a) triode vacuum tube,
(b) pi-network output tank
(c) high voltage source
(d) plate-current meter
(e) plate-voltage meter,
(f) rf chokes,
(g) bypass capacitors, coupling capacitor.

Study Question #35:
What is the proper tune-up procedure for the above circuit?

These are just a sample. They're not the exact questions that were on the old exams.

The actual exam was multiple choice, and would show a schematic of the amplifier circuit - close, but not exactly like the one shown inthe license manual - and had 5 of the components labelled "a" thru "e".

The question would be something like,
"which is the coupling capacitor?"
"which is an rf choke?"
"what is the function of the capacitor labelled ''d' in the circuit above?"

So you would have to learn the circuit, the components in it, and their names and functions. Then the actual exam would use a completely different format from the study guide.

The above questions and accompanying diagrams took up just a small part of one page in the study guide. But look how much material was covered!

How they compare to the current exams is a matter of opinion. IMHO the old exams covered fewer subjects but covered them in much more detail.

More to come.

It took little time to think of it and little time to type it. It is as accurate as it was the first time I wrote it.

No, Len, I wasn't born with an amateur radio license. I obtained my first one at age 14. Maybe you can use your clout as self-appointed advocate for something or other to have amateur radio licenses issued at birth.

> Don't tell us you did the "USAF thing"
> and "never went to school" on that?

Pretty close to being accurate, Leonora. I never went to classes to obtain any amateur radio license. It was all done by self-study. That's the way it was with my USAF training. I was awarded a 3-level skill code right out of basic training and received my 5-level through OJT.

As they say in the Guiness commercials, brilliant!

How old are you, Leonard? How long do you expect to live?

> Funny thing, Herr Robust Oberst, but NOBODY AT THE

You aren't employed by the FCC. Not everyone who works at the FCC is doing work related to amateur radio. Those who do work in areas relating to amateur radio are paid to do so. No one is paying you to regulate amateur radio. No one is going to pay you to obtain an amateur radio license. You may not accept money for operating an amateur radio station.

> Those are the folks who grant ham licenses, remember?

I remember well, Major Hoople. I've had quite a number of them.

They don't include Leonard H. Anderson.

I'm not acting, Len. I'm not required to accept your nonsense, to be sensitive to your self-esteem or to use politically correct methods in dealing with you.

I'm not much into bluster and/or bluff, Leonid.

For a fellow in his eighth decade of life, you don't act like an adult, Len. You act like a horse's patoot.

We? Do you have a Vibroplex in your pocket?

Leonard, that you, hot-ham-and-cheese (who is Brian?) and Colonel Mark Morgan of the U.S. Army Chemical Corps believe that, I must be doing something right. I'd included Roger Wiseman, but he is mentally unbalanced.

> FCC 06-178 has been decided. The code test will be > GONE.

So it will and so, if you can be believed in light of the Len Anderson falsehoods we've recently seen, so will you. That, in effect, will be the end of my involvement with Leonard H. Anderson. I needn't worry about running into you on the amateur bands. My operation won't change. The ARRL will still exist.

> Your "operator expertise" schtick is going to > be broken.

There's another of the notorious Anderson factual errors. A regulatory change does not negate my decades of experience. It does not make my skill in the use of Morse Code disappear. It does nothing to the experience and skill I've amassed in the use of other modes.

I'll still be a 20 WPM code-tested Extra Class amateur radio op with years of Federal radio experience. You'll still be sitting on the sidelines of amateur radio doing your Foghorn Lenhorn thing.

> Fork you and the hearse you rode in on...

You're a childish old man, Leonard.

That's probably true. So do "we" want new hams to have a broad-shallow knowledge or a narrow-deep knowledge? Do "we" want Swiss Army Knife type hams or quantum electrodynamic photon experts? I suggest the former would be more valuable to the "service".

Seems to me that a ham who is a jack-of-all-tradesand-master-of-none would be more valuable to the "service" than one who is ignorant of most trades and master of one.

He's a moron that claims an IQ of 247 but can't spell and does not need a spell checker. He claims it's everyone else that is wrong for pointing out his spelling. Keep reading, your eyes will hurt.
